3-Cent Tax Increase Looms In Budget Talks

BUDGET WORK

Assembly Backs Teacher Raises

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly rejected today a move to eliminate pay raises for University of California and state college faculty members, then moved toward passage of Gov. Ronald Reagan's record $5.72 billion budget.

Democrats and Republicans joined in a 64-4 vote against an amendment that would have wiped out the hikes.

Backing the amendment, Assemblyman Robert L. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, charged that faculty members had done nothing to prevent anti-Vietnam war demonstrations and artistic displays that he said "none of us would tolerate anywhere in public."

The budget provides for a 5.5 per cent pay boost for U.C. professors, and 10 per cent for the state college faculty.

That represents a boost over what the Republican governor asked for earlier in the year — 5 per cent for U.C. and 7.5 per cent for the colleges.

Assemblyman George T. Milias, R-Gilroy, asked that the pay raises be preserved, declaring Burke would "punish the many based on the misdeeds of the few."

"This is not a punishment," replied Burke. "It is withholding of a reward." He said he had seen "treasonous activities" take place during an anti-war rally he had attended at Berkeley.

The Assembly's Democratic leadership attack U.C. on another front, however. Assemblyman Winfield A. Shoemaker, D-Lompoc, chairman of the house's Democratic Caucus, asked that university extension agricultural research funds be trimmed because the university refused to tell "us where there is a direct profit" involved from help offered to farmers by extension.

Chairman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, of the budget screening Ways and Means Committee, opposed every amendment and asked for passage of a budget that is $20.6 million more than Reagan asked.

"This is the largest budget in the history of the state," he said, "owing to the state's drastic growth and the commensurate need for increased state services," he said.

Shoemaker charged the university refused to tell the legislature how it is spending the money.

Supervisors Vow To Pare Off Fat

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County Board of Supervisors opened 1968-69 budget discussions this morning with an indicated tax rate of $2.33, Already three cents over the $2.30 "freeze" which they pledged in April. The current fiscal year's tax rate is $2.30.

But the supervisors indicated they have every intention of chopping off any fat they can find in each department during the next 10 days to bring the rate down to $2.30 and below if possible.

Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell and County Administrator Alan Bruce announced that the total basic county budget at this point is $28,946,808, as compared with the current year's $27,942,178.

Bruce said that since the $2.30 "freeze" was announced by the supervisors, three major factors have added to the expected cost: the pledge of aid to the Sausalito School District, the approval of a balanced transportation study concept, and the assurance to welfare recipients that county supplemental funds will not be cut.

These, said Bruce, would have added 8 cents to the basic tax rate. However, he and the auditor-controller trimmed wherever possible so that the present indicated rate stands at $2.33.

LIKE SUMS

During the next 10 days of hearings department by department, if the supervisors decide to increase any budget beyond those recommended by the administrator, then they must have in mind a reduction of a like sum in some other area if the county is to stay near the $2.30 rate, Bruce warned.

Robert Roumiguiere, representing the Marin property Owners Association, called for a reduction of the county budget by 2 per cent.

'We ask the board to adopt a philosophy that there is fat in all budgets and proceed to cut them," said Roumiguiere. He said his group is not insisting on a "Ford budget," but would like to see a "Buick budget instead of a Cadillac budget."

TOTAL TAX

"The total tax burden has become absolutely unbearable," declared Roumiguiere. "It is time to call a halt. Spending for county government has to slow down."

He noted that the cost of county government has risen from $11,800,000 to $28,200,000, more than double in 10 years.

Randall Prevo, the new manager of the county employees association asked that the salaries of employees be raised at least 5 per cent than those recommended by the county administrator. He also asked that employees be paid time-and-a-half overtime. The supervisors decided that salaries will be taken up at the end of the budget hearing because

Ike Reported Alert, In Good Spirits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered a major heart attack Saturday night but is "alert and in good spirits," his physicians reported today.

"The early period following any heart attack is the most critical. The general's response so far has been favorable," the physicians said in response to question submitted by the Associated Press.

Officials at Walter Reed Army Hospital gave out answers to written questions following the issuance of a formal medical bulletin.

General Eisenhower, 77, has been comfortable during the past 24 hours and his blood pressure, pulse and breathing rate have remained stable," the bulletin said.

"There has been no further recurrence of pain since the initial episode the night of June 15. No signs of heart failure have appeared. He has remained alert and in good spirits."

No further bulletins were planned until tomorrow morning.

"Mrs. Eisenhower has visited with him frequently. His son, John and the general's brothers have been kept fully informed of his condition," the bulletin added.

The new seizure was Eisenhower's second since April 29 at his Southern California winter home. He has been hospitalized since then.

GARAGES, GRASS

Firemen Keep Busy At Point Reyes, Tam

Marin County firemen were kept busy yesterday by a Point Reyes Station fire which destroyed three garages and a car and by a two-acre grass fire near the summit of Mount Tamalpais.

The Point Reyes fire caused minor damage to homes and a church when a strong southeast wind carried burning embers as far as three blocks away.

Damage was estimated at $10,000 from yesterday's fire. Additionally, a fire this morning at the Point Reyes Station home of Armin Truttman on B Street already damaged yesterday, caused $3,500 living room and smoke damage.

Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said yesterday's fire destroyed three garages adjacent to one another on B Street, also destroyed a car and badly damaged a pickup truck, both parked in the driveway next to the garages.

He said the water supply from Point Reyes Water Co. was "inadequate" to fight the fire and maintained there "could have been real trouble" had the fire department not brought in three water tankers.

Bloom said the cause of the fire, started in one of the garages, is under investigation.

It resulted in damage to five homes, three of them nearby and two of them two blocks away, including holes in roofs, broken windows and scorched walls from embers carried by a strong southeast wind.

An ember burned a square-foot hole in the roof of Sacred Heart Catholic Church three blocks away.

Damaged were the homes of Paul Sweden, Mrs. Mary Carter, the Truttmans and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Arndt, all on B Street, and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Arndt on C Street.

The fire was fought by seven firemen and several volunteer Point Reyes residents.

Bloom said this morning's blaze in the Truttman home was caused by a pocket of gas which built up in a butane heater after it was turned on early today, contrary to instructions from firemen.

Bloom said the Mount Tamalpais fire, spotted by a lookout at 6:17 p.m., started on North Knee Trail near the summit and swept toward Marin Municipal Water District lands above Kent Woodlands.

He said it came within 300 feet of the lookout tower.

Bloom said the cause is under investigation. He said the fire started in "critical fire weather" with 23 per cent humidity and a temperature of 83 degrees.

He said 30 to 40 hikers helped firemen drag 2,000 feet of hose from a parking lot to the fire. The blaze was fought by eight county firemen in four units and 12 Tamalpais Fire District firemen in three units. Mill Valley firemen covered a county substation on Throckmorton Ridge while county firemen were busy on Mount Tamalpais.

LBJ Attacks Red Squeeze On Free Berlin

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson today charged the East German squeeze on Berlin travel is "totally unprovoked and unjustified aggravation" and said United States' support of a free Berlin "remains as firm as ever."

In a message to West German Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger, Johnson said the United States and West Germany are consulting with the British and the French on the new crisis involving Communist restrictions on surface travel between West Germany and West Berlin.

The West German government is reported deeply concerned with the latest rupture in West-East German relations and the new Berlin crunch.

Bonn officials said Kiesinger might fly to Washington to talk to President Johnson, but presidential press secretary George Christian said "I know of no plans at the moment" for Kiesinger to meet with Johnson.

The United States, Britain and France have protested the East German regulations, which include passports by July 15 for all West Germans and West Berliners traveling by surface routes.

Christian gave no indication of any other moves Johnson may be planning to meet the new Communist restrictions.

Johnson was spending another day of work and relaxation at the LBJ ranch.

Court Upholds 106-Year-Old Housing Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In one broad sweep, the Supreme Court declared today that a Negro is entitled to buy a home wherever a white man can.

By a 7-2 vote, the court upheld the constitutionality of a 106-year-old Reconstruction era law guaranteeing the rights of Negroes to purchase property without restriction.

The decision also virtually assured that the open housing law enacted by Congress this session would be upheld if a court test is made.

The majority opinion declared that the 13th Amendment abolishing slavery gave Congress the authority to guarantee for Negroes "the freedom to buy whatever a white man can buy, the right to live wherever a white man can live."

The ruling was among a number of decisions handed down by the court before adjourning until next October. In other major actions, the justices:

Struck down an Alabama regulation banning welfare payments to children if the mother has sexual relations with a "substitute father." The unanimous ruling on the so-called "man in the house" regulation also will affect similar welfare restrictions in the District of Columbia, and 18 other states.

Decided to hear further arguments next term on three cases from Connecticut, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, challenging welfare requirements that a person must establish one year of residence before benefits can be obtained.

AMA Suggests A National Medical Card

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—In a move to forestall pressures for fullscale socialized medicine, an American Medical Association committee has proposed a broad health services payment plan. (other AMA stories page 11.)

The committee's plan, unveiled in a preliminary report to the policy-making House of Delegates, included:

A national medical "credit card" which would enable patients, rich or poor, to receive immediate medical services anywhere.

Premiums paid by the well-off would go into a community insurance or fiscal agency while premiums for the poor would be paid by state or local welfare agencies.

A "negative income tax" credit system by which the poor would receive payments from the government and the well-off would get partial income tax credits for part of their health care premiums.

The committee is headed by Dr. Gerald D. Dorman, a New York Life Insurance Co. vice president. The group began its studies 16 months ago, drawing upon the ideas of economist Milton Friedman of University of Chicago, who was an advisor to presidential contender Barry Goldwater in 1964.

In defining its goals, the committee accepted several premises, some of them new to AMA thinking:

Adequate care should be available to all. Science has increased the demand for services because more effective treatments are now available. Some way must be found to assure all Americans some way to pay for the care they need.

Socialist Thomas Critical

HUNTINGTON, L.I. (UPI)—Socialist Norman Thomas, the six-time presidential candidate and battler for social justice, was in critical condition at Huntington Hopsital today with a liver ailment.

Thomas, 83, was hospitalized early yesterday. He had been living in the Hilaire Farm Nursing Home since suffering a stroke last November.

The Socialist leader, who also campaigned unsuccessfully for mayor of New York and governor, was to have held a news conference today.

Sources said Thomas was to have disclosed the contents of an open letter to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey asking him to make public his stand on Vietnam and domestic issues. The sources said Thomas also was to have announced his support of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

An anti-Communist leftist, Thomas ran for president on the Socialist ticket in 1928, 1932, 1936, 1940, 1944 and 1948.

Heart Patient Worries Medics

LONDON (UPI) — The National Heart Hospital said today the condition of Frederick West, Britain's first heart transplant patient, is "causing concern."

First Red Copter Assault Into South

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. jets shot down seven North Vietnamese helicopters being used in South Vietnam and the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) for the first time in the war, a South Vietnamese army general said today.

He said the incident last night marked a major escalation of the war by Hanoi.

The U.S. command issued a cautious statement tentatively confirming the gist of the report by Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of South Vietnamese forces in the area.

American headquarters were silent however, on a report from Da Nang by the Columbia Broadcasting Co. (CBS) that a Communsit MIG jet strafed and sank a U.S. gunboat near the DMZ yesterday with the loss of five crewmen.

The U.S. report on the gunboat said it was destroyed by direct hits from North Vietnamese shore batteries.

"This represents an escalation of the war," General Lam said in reporting that two of the North Vietnamese helicopters were shot down over South Vietnam and five more in the southern half of the DMZ between the two Vietnams. He identified the crafts as Soviet MI4 Hounds, equipped with instruments for night and bad weather operations.

The statement on the Lam report from the U.S. command said headquarters "had received reports of radar sightings of unidentified aircraft which were suspected to be enemy helicopters."

The American statement said the aircraft "were taken under fire by naval vessels and U.S. aircraft in the area. A daylight reconnaissance to ascertain damage has been conducted. No results are available."

Informed military sources said one of the helicopters crashed north of the Marine base at Con Thien. There was speculation that allied ground troops might push out from the base into the dangerous fringes of the DMZ and try tto locate the wreckage.

Lam raised the possibility the helicopters were on night training missions in preparation for a bigger raid against American and South Vietnamese outposts strung out along the 30-mile long frontier from Khe Sanh on the west to beaches on the South China Sea.

There have been previous reports of North Vietnamese helicopters but not so far south as the DMZ. U.S. warplanes late last year zeroed in on targets near the big port of Haiphong where disassembled helicopters arriving from the Soviet Union had been unloaded.

U.S. planes hit the Dong Hoi area and other points in North Vietnam's panhandle area with 142 missions yesterday, the heaviest day of bombing since April 22 when 155 missions were flown.

For the first night since May 31 Saigon was spared a guerrilla rocket or mortar attack last night and this morning. But in anti-Viet Cong sweeps around the capital, allied troops killed 85 guerrillas. American units suffered 11 men wounded, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses pounded Ciet Cong trails leading toward Saigon.

No Progress Seen In Next Viet Round

PARIS (UPI) — Diplomatic sources predicted today Vietnam war talks will make no progress this week because North Vietnam apparently wants to score a major military victory before changing the pace of the negotiations.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy, chief North Vietnamese delegate, are to meet Wednesday in the ninth session of preliminary talks designed to scale down the war and allow full-scale negotiations.

The sources cited North Vietnamese troop buildups in northern and central South Vietnam as well as continued guerrilla pressure on Saigon. These might carry Communist hopes for a major military victory to aid their side in talks here.

The talks remained deadlocked at the eighth session last Wednesday. Harriman warned Viet Cong rocket attacks upon Saigon were threatening the future of the negotiations.

Sirhan Shouted Dislike Of Kennedy, Witness Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Sirhan B. Sirhan shouted his dislike of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy shortly before Kennedy was slain, Life magazine says.

In its current issue, the magazine said two witnesses told of Sirhan's activities before the shooting. Sirhan is accused of the slaying.

The magazine named one of the witnesses as Enrique Rabago, 35, an unemployed mechanic. It said the other was a "still unnamed friend."

On the evening before Kennedy was shot, Life said, Sirhan "had just been thrown out of a victory party being held by backers of Max Rafferty who had won the GOP senatorial nomination."

Because he was coatless and without a tie, the story says, an Ambassador Hotel waitress refused to serve Sirhan a drink. "He put up a fuss," Life said, "and contemptously tipped her $20 'for nothing.' A security guard eased him out."

On the other side of the lobby, the magazine said, Rabago nodded in the direction of the Embassy Room and said, "Robert Kennedy might help the poor."

At that, Sirhan was quoted as shouting, "Kennedy—Kennedy—he should never be president. Kennedy helps himself. He's just using the poor. Can't you see that?"

Car Workers Vote To End French Halt

PARIS (UPI)—The most crippling strike movement in French history neared its end today when 85,000 holdout strikers at the state-run Renault automotive plant voted to return to work. It appeared fewer than 100,000 of the original 10 million strikers would still be out by midweek.

Collapse of the strike movement at the die-hard Renault plant followed government victory on another front—the students.

Police yesterday evicted students from the 700-year-old Sorbonne University, dispelled a counter-demonstration and kept the French tricolor flying today in place of the red and black flags of revolution and anarchy.

The Renault workers spearheaded the walkouts 33 days ago but today they voted by a large majority to return to work. Workers at Citroen, Peugeot, Berliet and other French automotive and metallurgical plants are expected to follow.

Renault is one of France's biggest dollar earners, and President Charles de Gaulle's government considered it vital that the strike should end before the June 23 and 30 national Assembly elections.

The settlement hiked wages of Renault workers an average of 10 per cent this year and more than that for the lowest paid workers. The work week was cut back from 46 to 45 hours, to be followed by another half-hour cut in October 1969.

The first steamship made its trial run in Lyons, France.

Stanford Grads Told To Practice Patience

STANFORD (AP) — President Wallace Sterling told Stanford University's graduating class yesterday that it will need patience from now on, since "... the road to social improvements is not likely to be a race track."

Sterling, who is retiring to become chancellor at the school, said:

"No genertaion has had or has a monopoly on aspiration to improve the human condition ..."

He warned some 4,000 graduates and about 6,000 others that "nothing tests the fiber of a generation more than does the test of sustaining its aspirations in the face of delay and disappointment."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Income Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A majority of Americans don't like the idea of a guaranteed annual income for nonworkers but overwhelmingly support a plan that would guarantee everyone enough work to earn at least $60 a week, according to the Gallup Poll.

The poll reported yesterday that a recent survey of 1,570 adults across the nation found that the lower a person's income the more likely he was to support a guaranteed minimum income.

But the survey added that a significant fact reported was that an overwhelming majority of persons in all income levels and of all races supported a plan guaranteeing work rather than money.

Milk Pollution?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Fumes from heavy automobile traffic on hot summer days apparently contaminate powdered milk produced at nearby drying plants, the US. Deaprtment of Agriculture reported today.

Preliminary studies last year indicated this conclusion, the department said. But by the time the theory was advanced, summer was over and proof of the premise had to await this year's hot weather.

If present indications are borne out, future milk drying plants may have to be built far from city traffic, or with sophisticated filter systems to remove air contaminants.

Plea To Kennedys

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The father of the accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy pleaded yesterday with the Kennedy family and the courts to be "lenient and forgiving."

Bishara Sirhan, father of Sirhan Shiran, 24, said he had lost a son himself in 1946 but he "forgave the killers."

The elder Sirhan, an Arab Christian who lives near Jerusalem, made his remarks at Amman, Jordan, where he had gone to withdraw money from a bank to prepare for a trip to the United States. He said he believed his son had killed Kennedy and that his move was nationalist sentiment.

LONDON (UPI) — A British law firm today started preparing a rebuttal to a n American demand for extradition of James Earl Ray, accused of killing Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Diplomatic sources said the London law firm of Dresden and Co. had been given American documents supporting the request that Ray be turned over to U.S. atuhorities for extradition to the United States. The firm was named by the British court to defend Ray.

The American extradition demand is expected to be presented in court for the first time at a hearing tomorrow at the Bow Street Magistrate's Court. A formal extradition hearing probably will be held a week to 10 days after the hearing.

ORGANIZING AT QUENTIN

Mexican-American Prisoners Ask For Jobs, Job Training

Mexican-American prisoners at San Quentin are organizing.

Members of their organization, Empleo, the Spanish word for work, met with outsiders Saturday to tell what they want.

The prime listener at the meeting of 50 Mexican-American inmates was Ellis G. Savides, special assistant to the director of the State Department of Corrections, whose specialty is race relations.

He heard that Mexican-American prisoners want jobs and job training, that they want drug offenders to be allowed to take all job-training courses and that they seek elemination of an alleged "economic conspiracy" and removal of a ban on prisoners receiving a Mexican-American newspaper, judged inflamatory by prison authorities.

Empleo was started a year ago, according tto James W. L. Park, associate warden, in an effort to organize between 700 and 800 Mexican-Americans among the 4,000 inmates at San Quentin.

At the meeting, emphasis was placed on the need for political power.

"There is an economic conspiracy pressing Mexican Americans to be the least trained and a conspiracy to keep them down as much as possible," said one inmate.

"We need Empleo power," said another. "We need to relate the situtaion to everyone . . . an enlightened public is going to change the situation."

The Empleeo members were vocal, articulate and plain-spoken.

One, Cipriano Montoya, declared, "ex-convicts must be able to melt into the community . . . an image has already been cast—that of ex-convict."

He charged that school achievement tests given to determine eligibility for job training are unfair to Mexican-Americans who haven't had as much schooling as other inmates.

The tests are required, according to Park, by trade advisory committees composed of union and management representatives. Prisoners must have some reading ability, he said, to take the courses.

Eduardo Z. Aguirre, a visitor who represented the League of United Citizens to Help Drug Addicts, spoke of the drug offender's plight.

"The Chicano (Mexican American) who is a drug offender can't get vocational training," Aguirre said, "in the bakery or butcher shop for example, merely because he's a drug offender —plus he's a Mexican."

Another inmate, Robert Villalobos, sought lifting of a bar on prisoners receiving a Los Angeles newspaper for Mexican-Americans, a newspaper classified as "inflammatory."

"Any damn prison is intolerable," he said, "but we should be able to read what we want and express what we want. What I read of the first issue was not inflammatory. What it does is articulate our problems, specific problems, and tell how to handle them."

Park defended the ban. "We can't allow violence and we can't allow insurrection. You can do certain things on the outside that you can't do in here in the interest of everybody concerned, including the inmates."

The meeting ended with Aguirre declaring, "The pressure is building. There will be changes. Tokenism is on the way out."

Police Nab Meredith In School Rights Fuss

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights activist James H. Meredith was arrested today after he tried to enter a Harlem school as part of a parents' protest over a Negro teacher's dismissal.

The teacher, Ralph Poynter, was seized earlier in the morning after a confrontation at the school's front door with Principal Harvey Nagler. Poynter was charged with harassment and resisting arrest.

Less than an hour after Poynter was arrested, Meredith broke away from a group of about 20 people outside the school and dashed for the front door.

Meredith was charged with disorderly conduct.

Meredith gained fame as the first Negro student at the University of Mississippi in 1962.

As police led him to a police car, Meredith shouted: "You got trouble now. You got trouble now."

Poynter's firing was the center of the controversy at Public School 175.

The board of education said he was fired for excessive absence, but a Harlem parents's group demanding his reinstatement said Poynter was dismissed because he favored more community participation in the schools.

The group, called Concerned Parents and Community Organizations, said it would take over the predominantly Negro school unless the fifth grade teacher is rehired.

A spokesman for the group said it had secured Poynter's reinstatement on two previous occasions, once by a three-day student boycott and later by what it called a confrontation which closed the school.

There was no attempt today to prevent teachers or pupils from entering the school.

The school principal said Poynter had been absent 12 times in May, and that he had "tried to take over the school last September."

Damages Minor In Auto Blaze

The fire that damaged a Mill Valley resident's car yesterday was probably a million to one shot, but it was small consolation.

Alto firemen said H. A. Harrison, of 110 Wisteria Way, was loading lumber into his car at Goodman Building Supply, 776 Redwood Highway, when one piece of wood accidently scraped some matches lying in the back seat and ignited them.

Firemen limited damage to the rear seat of the car.

She drove away and suddenly remembered the purse. It was gone when she drove back to the parking spot.

BUDGET

salaries are only one of many factors making up the total budget.

The first two departments that were discussed had their budgets approved as recommended by the administrator.

The sealer of weights of measures new budget is $53,622 as compared with this year's $50,088, and the economic development budget is $71,200 as compared with this year's $70,603

The supervisors stressed that each department budget approval is only on a tentative basis, because after all have been discussed, changes may have to be made.

Administrator Bruce reported that the first departments will be more or less routine, and that the budgets with "more challenge" are scheduled discussions later.

Bridge Engineer Front Runner For General Manager

Robert E. Shields, 42-year-old chief engineer of the Golden Gate Bridge, is a front running candidate to replace James Adam as the bridge's general manager this summer, according to John E. Nelson, president of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Nelson said this morning that no decision has been made on the man who will replace Adam, who must retire by August 1. He said he hopes the choice will be made by July 12.

There are more than five candidates for the job, Nelson said, but Shields "is certainly in the forefront."

Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato, one of Marin's two representatives on the 14-member board, said today that Shields "seems a logical choice" for the job.

Shields first worked for the district in 1961 as a project engineer. He was hired again last August as chief engineer, a $22,000 a year post.

Then, a car driven by Claudio R. Peragallo, 38, of San Mateo, crashed into the rear of the Melick vehicle.

Mrs. Melick was out of her car before it was struck by the other two, officers reported. The other drivers escaped injury.

Copies were sent to President Johnson, AFL-CIO head George Meany and other political union leaders.

figured in their conviction on espionage charges at Newark, N.J., in 1964. The appeal was brought by John William Butenko of Orange, N.J., and Igor A. Ivanov, the chauffeur. The court also held off for further hearings a decision in a Denver, Colo., case which involved eavesdropping on two Denver men convicted of conspiring to threaten. This means that a definitive ruling on the question of government eavesdropping probably will not come until next year.

Ruled that the nation's 1,800 Community Atnenna Television (CATV) systems are not required to pay copyright fees for program material they pickup and transmit by cable from regular television stations. Overruling lower court judgments against a West Virginia CATV operation, the court said in a 5-1 decision that CATV transmission did not constitute a "public performance" under terms of the federal copyright law.

Refused to hold at this time that the imprisonment of chronic alcoholics on drunk charges amounted to "cruel and unusual punishment." A test case brought on behalf of Leroy Powell, convicted in Travis County, Tex., argued that alcoholism is an illness rather than a crime and that the victim should be given medical treatment instead of punishment. The court let stand Powell's conviction.

In the housing case, Justice Potter Stewart delivered the opinion in favor of a St. Louis Negro, Joseph Lee Jones, who charged he was "fenced out" of a local subdivision on racial grounds.

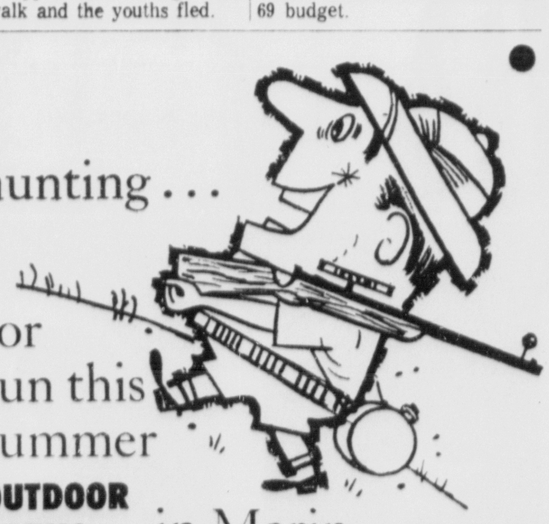
The San Anselmo City Council will review proposed budgets for the public works department, design review board and planning department at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at city hall. Thursday at the same time the council will make a final review of the 1968-69 budget.



Over 100,000 Vehicles Cross Span Yesterday

Golden Gate Bridge set a new record for traffic yesterday, Father's Day ,with 100,403 vehicles, James Adam, general manager, announced today.

It was the first time the bridge had passed the 100,000 mark on a single day.

The bridge's previous high mark was 98,655 vehicles on Sunday, Aug. 20, 1966.

Adam attributed the record traffic to perfect weather prevailing throughout the North Bay Area served by the bridge.

He said that bridge facilities were taxed to capacity yesterday morning northbound and southbound in the evening, with some delays and congestion.

Fog in the evening slowed traffic and there were two minor collisions on the bridge, but otherwise Adam said, there were no major incidents in handling the traffic.

Reed Trustees Plan Discussion Of New Budget

Reed School District trustees, meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Del Mar School, will discuss tentative budget of $2,051,907.

Estimated expenditures for 1968-69 at $1,985,361, are up $15,719 from this year's spending of $1,968,053, according to Asst. Supt. William G. Vanasen.

Minor revisions of the working budget account for $719. The $15,000 is to pay the salary of Lynn Jenks, director of research, whose salary was previously paid by federal and private funds.

Supt. H. Joe Edgington has chopped $4,000 from administration expenses, $3,800 from instruction, $1,600 from operational costs, $1,400 from maintenance, $3,000 from capital outlay and $1,150 from reserve funds to provide the salary.

Edginton said the board does not expect an increase in the current tax rate of $3.375 per $100 assessed valuation because of expenses, but that the tax rate probably will be raised from 20 to 25 cents due to the bond issue of $1,600,000 passed last June for the construction of Reedland Woods School and an addition at Granada School.

Felony Driving Plea Entered

William Reid Hoover, 23, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court today to felony drunken driving which involved an injury.

Judge Harold J. Haley scheduled judgment for 11 a.m. on July 22.

Hoover, of Portland, Ore., suffered a spinal injury in the collision Dec. 18, and recently was released from Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. California Highway Patrol said he was driving on Shoreline Highway when his car went out of control and over a 15-foot embankment.

His passenger, William Hornbeck, 21, a soldier stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco, suffered a fractured right arm.

Smoke billows from ruins of half-century-old building at 3 Octavia Street, San Rafael, which was gutted by fire Saturday. San Rafael Fire chief Vance Trivett today said the cause remains unknown. He said damage to the recently remodeled building has not been estimated, but did say the loss was placed at 60 per cent. The structure was insured for $60,000 and its contents for $5,000, the chief said. It contained seven apartment units, six of which were occupied. Firemen alerted residents and evacuated the building.

Stinson Sewer Collection Plan Is Authorized

Brown and Caldwell, San Francisco consulting engineers, were authorized to make a preliminary engineering study of a sewer collection system for the Stinson Beach County Water District Saturday.

The water district board also authorized the maximum expenditure of $3,750 with the cost to be determined by the number of hours required to complete the study, according to Mrs. Harriet M. Greene, board secretary. Detailed topographical maps were also approved at a cost of $2,500, Mrs. Greene said.

Construction costs for the sewer system have been estimated at $3.7 million. The water district is currently negotiating with the Bolinas Community Public Utilities District to share the construction and operation costs.

The board also adopted a $9,375 budget for fiscal 1968-69, Mrs. Green reported. Of the total budget, $5,185 will be raised by property taxes and $4,190 will come from reserve funds, she said.

This year's budget of $4,685 is completely financed by the property tax of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Mrs. Greene said the board anticipates little increase in the tax rate because the assessed valuation of the district is expected to increase 7 per cent next year. She said the board had made no estimate of what the nominal increase might be.

In the 11968-69 budget, $600 will be spent for salaries, $2,525 for operation and maintenance and $6,250 for study costs for the proposed sewer system.

The board also asked the county council to draft an ordinance which can be used by the district to grant garbage collection franchises.

Greenbrae Educator's Ouster Hearing Set

A demand for the ouster of Richard L. Foster of Greenbrae as superintendent of San Ramon Valley Unified School District in Contra Costa County is scheduled to be heard at a meeting of the district's trustees tonight in Danville.

One of the proposals for which Foster is under fire is for busing pupils from Oakland and Richmond proverty areas to the San Ramon Valley schools — the same as a proposal which has stirred lesser controversy in Mill Valley.

A petition being circulated in the Contra Costa district, calling for Foster's removal, says in part:

"We have for the past two years exhibited concern for the educational philosophy introduced by Foster. Since he has been superintendent we have observed an indifference toward classroom discipline and a trend toward permissive education."

The San Ramon Valley school board reportedly is split regarding the superintendent, with two members opposed to his educational philosophies.

Superintendent under fire

The district has received wide acclaim since Foster became superintendent in 1965, including a national award as a model school district.

Foster was assistant Marin County schools superintendent under Wallace W. Hall, and served as county superintendent from Hall's departure for a state job until election of Virgil S. Hollis in 1958. Soon after Hollis took office, Foster resigned to become superintendent of Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City.

Foster served six years in Daly City. Controversy surrounded his resignation there, with claims it had been forced by three members of the school board.

Throughout his service as superintendent in Daly City and in San Ramon Valley, Foster has continued to reside at 5 Corte Cayuga in Greenbrae.

Drath Flays 'Myth' Of Vietnams

Phillip Drath, Democratic nominee for Congress in the Sixth District has declared that the "U.S. position at the Paris peace talks is based on a myth —the myth of two Vietnams."

In a press conference in San Francisco Friday, Drath said the split of Vietnam into two nations "is due almost entirely to U.S. action. We must face the reality that Vietnam is one country and has been just that for at least 1,000 years," he said.

"How dare our government waste more American and Vietnamese lives on this fraud," declared Drath.

The U.S. refused to abide by the Geneva settlement of the Vietnam question after the French defeat, Drath said, "and set up a puppet regime in the South and didn't allow elections to have been held in the entire country."

"We still find ourselves involved up to our ears in a morass of our making and yet unwilling to even consider talking sense in Paris," said Drath.

Drath also reiterated his support for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. "We can no longer meet the rising demands and new hopes of the young and the poor with smooth talk from Johnson's sales manager," Drath said of Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Combining the California vote for McCarthy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Drath said 88 per cent of the state's Democrats "were voting for a change in direction. You can't sweep Vietnam nor poverty under the rug," declared Drath.

Vance Is Winner Over Buckley To Yale Board

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Cyrus R. Vance, diplomat and deputy negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, was named yesterday as a new trustee of Yale University.

Vance, U.S. ambassador-at-large, won out over William L. Buckley Jr. and businessman John Musser.

Yale President Kingman Brewster Jr., in announcing the election results at the annual alumni reunion, said a record 30,000 Yale alumni took part in the balloting over the past two months.

Vance, a 1939 Yale graduate, will assume his new duties July 1 as a fellow of the 19-member Yale Corporation, the university's governing board of trustees. The term is for six years.

Vance succeeds William McChesney Martin, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve System.

Talk On Deliquency

Sgt. G. A. Howenstein of the San Anselmo Police Department will speak on "The Importance of Religion in Delinquency Prevention" at noon Wednesday before the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club. Clergy of each denomination in Ross Valley have been invited as guests. The meeting will be at Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield.

Novato Trustees To Take Action On City Budget

The Novato Unified School District board will adopt a preliminary budget when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the administration building.

The budget proposed on May 28 was for $8,450,927. Tonight the board will also consider salary proposals for both teachers and non teaching personnel in the district. Supt. James G. Bunker will propose that the district keep the present salary schedule with the option to increase it according to money the district gets fro mthe state and federal governments.

The board will also award an insurance contract for the district. Bids on the insurance were opened last Thursday.

Other items to come before the board include authorization to advertise for the purchase of a school bus, grading the Marin Oaks Elementary School site and hearing a report on the family life education program.

For example . . . the little VW is a mighty fine car. It's put together by strong mechanics. They have contests to see who can tighten the bolts best. They never come apart. Except at the seams. We sew them up. With dacron thread. And they never come apart! (Sam, incidentally, pioneered the use of dacron thread in the automotive field in Marin. Just one of our many firsts.)
We sew seams for Fords, Chevs, and Plymouths, TRs, MGAs, and Alfas. And many more, too. We also install seat covers, auto glass and convertible tops, carpets, headrests and armrests. And many more.

Drop-Out Teacher, Custodian Retire From Dixie School Duties

RETIRING CUSTODIAN—Bernard Rogan, 67, hoists flag at Silveira School for the last time after 12 years as custodian. Second graders Cindy Clawson and Daniel Weber bid him goodby.

Two veteran employees of Dixie School District's Mary E. Silveira School—a teacher who describes herself as a "first grade drop-out" and a custodian who opened up the school in 1956 — have retired.

The "drop-out" is Mrs. Verna McGee, who has taught first graders for 20 years in California, the last 11 years at Silveira.

"After 20 years, I can't seem to get beyond first grade, so I'm dropping out," said Mrs. McGee.

Her teaching career actually dates back 25 years to her native city of Lawton, Okla., where she taught high school and elementary students for five years.

In 1948, she and her husband, Jay V. McGee, now a semi-retired real estate man, moved to Orosi, Tulare County, where she began her 20-year association with the first graders.

After eight years, she moved to Marin and taught for a year at Mill Valley's Park School under Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, before coming to Silveira School in 1957.

"The children today at 6 are more mature than they were 20 years ago," she said. "They seem to be better prepared when they enter first grade because of kindergarten, traveling, and television."

Her students and some of her former students visited Mrs. McGee at her last day of work Friday, presenting her with gifts and scrapbooks with pictures and letters pasted inside.

"Each year I think the students are the best ever," she said, hugging one of her pupils, "and they keep getting better and better."

She and her husband live at 548 Las Colindas Road, San Rafael.

"I don't know what I'll be doing from today," said Mrs. McGee. "we hope to do a little traveling, maybe trips to the New England states, and a visit to our son in Arcata." The son, Jay E. McGee, is a physician there.

Her hobbies include bridge, sewing and horseback riding.

The custodian who retired with her is Bernard B. Rogan, 67, of 15 Amacita Avenue, Mill Valley.

He was there to greet the students when the school opened its doors in 1956.

"I'll miss the work," said Rogan, "but I'll miss the youngsters more than anything else. The administration has been very nice, too. One of the best bosses I've every worked for. They gave me a dinner and a camera as a gift, which I really appreciated."

His recollections of 12 years at the school are happy ones except for one thing. "Some who started out at this school have been killed in Vietnam. One in particular was George Doane. A very nice boy."

Rogan came to the United States from Scotland in 1927 and worked in New England, mostly in Maine. He became custodian at Bernard Hoffman School in 1956 and at Silveira school in 1957.

He and his wife, Catherine, plan to remain in Mill Valley. "We've got a big garden. There will be plenty of work around the house," he said.

What are his future plans? "Maybe I'll start going to school, starting with Tamalpais High School evening school, during the winter months when there's not much work around the house."

Money Bag Is Stolen From Auto At Wash

San Rafael police today were investigating a reported theft Friday afternoon of a money bag and its contents, estimated at $250 to $300, from the auto of the manager of Robo Car Wash, 20 Bellam Boulevard.

Conrad O. Mannes, 54, retired Army lieutenant colonel who manages the establishment, told police that he was about to leave for the day at 5:50 p.m. Friday when a driver for a moving and storage firm asked him to help get a soft drink from a stubborn dispensing machine.

Mannes returned to his auto within two minutes, he said, and the Bank of Marin money bag had been taken from the floor of front seat. The door on the driver's side was unlocked.

Mannes said there were several high school boys across the parking lot of the establishment washing their cars. Police were trying to locate the driver for the moving firm, who Mannes said was named Ken Porter.

Police also questioned a man sitting in a car about 100 feet from the scene and facing it. He said he was waiting for a friend, and had seen nobody enter the Mannes vehicle.

Three Jury Trials Scheduled Tomorrow

Three jury trials including the case of San Quentin inmate Leon Estrada Robles, accused of murder today, were scheduled for 10 a.m. tomorrow on the Marin Superior Court master calendar.

Trial of Robles, charged with killing a psychiatric ward inmate, Forrest W. Smith, 42, in prison by slashing his throat with a razor and beating him over the head with heavy weights, will be before Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Robles has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. He already is serving a life sentence for another inmate slaying. Smith, a forger and burglar, was killed Nov. 6. Trial is expected to last about four weeks.

Trial of Robert Dale Litteral, 20, and his brother, Harry Alexander Litteral, 18, jointly accused of marijuana possession on March 25, was scheduled before Judge Harold J. Haley.

Robert Litteral also is accused of furnishing methedrine to a minor on March 25. The pair resides at 812 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Robert Henry Gonzales, 18, will stand trial before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner. The youth, of 757 Kerner Street, San Rafael, is accused of burgling a building occupied by Barbara Larkey at 17 Canyon Oak Drive, San Rafael, on Sept. 2.

Case of a co-defendant, Brooks Liggatt, 18, of San Jose, was certified to juvenile court for hearing as a minor.

China Camp Fund Due ABAG Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors' application for a $283,250 federal grant to buy 29 acres at China Camp for a park will be reviewed by the Association of Bay Area Governments' executive committee at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Hotel Claremont, Berkeley.

The park, estimated to cost a total of $566,500, would be dedicated to Mrs. Caroline S. Livermore, noted Marin conservationist, who died Feb. 2.

Also on the agenda is a report on efforts to recover the $511,000 stolen from ABAG's treasury by its former assistant director, Thomas N. Truax. He was sentenced this week to prison.

Two Marin Housewives Directing Drive For Stricter Gun Controls

By GLENN BECKER

Two Marin housewives in their mid-20s, rank political amateurs driven to action by the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, have launched a grass-roots drive for gun control legislation that has gained adherents throughout the Bay Area.

Today Mrs. Tanya (Paul C.) LaPorte, of 200 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, and Mrs. Carol (P. William) Hodgson, of 14 Garden Way, Larkspur, were in Berkeley seeking support for a petition for gun control which they intend to send to the state Legislature.

Tomorrow they plan to lead a delegation from their group, which they call People for Gun Control, to the Marin County Board of Supervisors' meeting at Civic Center to ask for a local gun registration ordinance.

Wednesday Mrs. LaPorte and Mrs. Hodgson will be back in Berkeley with their petition, and Friday they will take their case before a senior citizens' gathering in San Francisco.

Briefly, their petition urges registration of all firearms and transfers of them; outlawing of possession of such weapons by such persons as drug addicts and the mentally ill, and restriction of possession by minors to those engaged in licensed hunting.

Mrs. LaPorte and Mrs. Hodgson claim to have enlisted the aid of about 30 other men and women to circulate the petition and organize public support for new gun legislation.

This growing cadre includes residents of San Mateo, Daly City, Oakland, Petaluma and Sunnyvale, as well as several Marin communities. Many learned of the drive when Mrs. LaPorte spoke on radio phone-in programs and was interviewed by Bay Area radio stations.

The women have also received encouragement and offers of assistance from Bay Area attorneys, a professional photographer and an assistant to Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, chairman of the powerful Assembly Ways and Means Committee and author of a gun control bill which was killed in committee last week.

TANYA LAPORTE
Kennedy tragedy . . .

CAROL HODGSON
. . . spurs action

both Tanya LaPorte and Carol Hodgson supported the late Senator Kennedy, but neither had any significant political experience until the shock of his assassination June 5 spurred them to move.

"I've been interested (in gun legislation) like most citizens, as a bystander," sayd Mrs. LaPorte, who has one child and is six months pregnant.

"But the Kennedy killing was like a tragedy in my own household, because I felt more than ever before that Robert Kennedy could lead us out of this troubled state we're in.

"I felt very grief-stricken over John (President Kennedy) but nothing like over Robert. Now that he's gone I feel completely frustrated.

"We're going on just as we were because our leaders are the same. It's like a bomb has been dropped within my mind and now I have to do something."

Stolen Auto Is Found Quickly

Sheriff's deputies recoevered a stolen car early Saturday, minutes after the theft was reported.

Deputies found the car, owned by Robert D. Page of Palo Alto, on Seminary Drive in Strawberry, a jack nearby and a suitcase of men's clothing strewn around.

Sheriff's communications center told them that the car theft in Sausalito had been reported by Page only a few minutes before. One tire was missing when the car was recovered.

Two Dead, One Hurt In Bay Shootings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two persons were killed and a third suffered gunshot wounds in three shooting incidents during the weekend in the San Francisco Bay Area.

A woman liquor store clerk in San Francisco received two gunshot wounds yesterday when she exchanged fire with a would-be holdup man who excaped with two companions.

Mrs. Patricia Heath was treated at Park Emergency Hospital and released. Doctors removed a small caliber slug from her left shoulder and patched up a crease wound on her head.

An apparently accidental shooting at a doghnut shop on Fillmore Street in San Francisco resulted in the death yesterday of a customer.

Police said the owner of the shop, Reginald Alexis, 44, told them he picked up a revolver to return it to the safe and was joking and waving his hands about when the gun fired.

A bullet between the eyes killed Harry L. Williams, 30, a regular customer at the shop. Witnesses agreed the shooting was accidental.

In Alameda, police were holding a 28-year-old man for questioning in the shooting death yesterday of an Alameda youth.

Jerry A. Trapani, 21, was fatally wounded by rifle fire. Police did not identify the man they were holding.

The shooting was apparently witnessed by an unidentified woman, but officers said she was too hysterical to give a coherent account.

Condition Fair

Dan Gutkowski, 16, of 28 Echo Avenue, Corte Madera, who was injured in a motorcycle wreck Friday, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today. Gutkowski was injured when his motorcycle struck a rock on Paradise Drive in front of San Clemente School and threw him, police said.

Marin Woman Hurt, Sister Dead In Crash

I-J Special Report

WILLITS — An 18-year-old San Rafael housewife was critically injured and her younger sister killed when the car they were riding in plunged 100 feet down an embankment 18 miles north of Willits last night.

Dorothy Raynette Hendry, 17, was killed in the crash. Joyce Unangst of San Rafael was critically injured.

Mendocino County sheriff's deputies said their car, driven by Mrs. Unangst's husband, Robert, was eastbound on Covelo Road, when it apparently moved to the left lane on a curve and struck a westbound auto.

The Unangst auto careened off the westbound car, drove over an embankment and landed on the rocky beach of a creek, 100 feet below, deputies said.

Robert Unangst and another passenger, Will McCan, 19, of Willits, were reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Willits hospital. Mrs. Unangst's condition was still critical.

William Pendleton, 43, of Ukiah, driver of the westbound car, escaped injury. His passenger, Cecilia Wright, 42, of Clearlake Oaks, was slightly hurt, officers said.

Several riders in the Unangst car were thrown from the auto at point of impact, deputies said. The crash occurred at 6 p.m.

Unmanned Station Study On Agenda

San Rafael Fire Commission approval of the fire department training program that results in two fire stations being unmanned for several hours each day will be re-evaluated at a meeting of the commission at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the city hall.

City Councilman Louis H. Baar raised a question about the practice at a council budget study session last week.

Sister Patrick Retires As Dominican Leader

Sister Mary Patrick Harney, O.P., retired Saturday after 18 years as president of Dominican College in San Rafael, and was succeeded by Sister Mary Samuel Conlan, former academic dean of the school.

Both Sister Patrick and Sister Samuel have had long associations with Dominican. Sister Patrick was graduated from the college in 1922, took her novitiate there and has taught ever since at the Dominican lower and upper schools, now San Dominico School for Girls, and at the college, except for one year at a Domincan high school in Stockton.

Sister Samuel also was an undergraduate at Domincan and earned her secondary teaching credential there. She holds a master's degree from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., and a doctorate from Stanford University.

After five years of instructing at the Dominican Upper School in San Rafael, Sister Samuel came back to the college to teach English. She became dean of students in 1963 and academic dean last year.

Sister Samuel's uncle, Dr. Louis Conlan, is president of City College of San Francisco.

Parolee Booked In Auto Probe

The California Highway Patrol booked a Washington State parolee into Marin County jail for investigation of car theft after a patrolman stopped to help the young man Friday morning.

Roy James Dunn, 21, was jailed in lieu of $1,150 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

A patrolman found Dunn and his stalled car on Puerto Suello Hill on the shoulder of Highway 101 and stopped to help. He reportedly got unsatisfactory answers when he asked Dunn about the car, and a check indicated the vehicle was stolen from Miguel A. Rivera of Los Angeles. Further checking showed Dunn was on parole from Washington, but was not currently sought.

Session On Budget

Adoption of a proposed budget for 1968-69 for the Town of Corte Madera is on the agenda of the council meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in town hall. The proposed budget is $765,439.

TV Service Hit By Sliced Cable

Television service to many Southern Marin residents was interrupted Thursday night when someone cut the cable of Clearview Cable Systems, Inc., in Tamalpais Valley.

The cable, which carries video signals to homes where normal antenna reception is blocked by hills, was severed by someone who used cable cutters, sheriff's officers reported today.

Deputies said they found footprints and a trail left by the culprit as he dragged the large cutters down to a creek bed to the exposed cable.

The large cable was severed in a creek bed located between 538 Shoreline Highway and Browning Avenue at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Clearview began receiving complaints from television watchers at that hour, but was unable to find the break until Friday morning, deputies said.

People are different.

So are Bank of America Personal Choice Checking Accounts.

Now Bank of America gives you a choice of personal checking plans. We've introduced a new flat rate plan with a maximum charge of $2.00 a month. The basic checking plan has been improved so you won't have to pay any service charge if your minimum balance is $500 or more. You now have a choice of four checking plans, more than you will find at any other major bank. One's the right choice for you. To find out exactly which one, see the details below—or come into your nearest Bank of America branch for a check-up.

1. THE NEW TWO/ONE/FREE PLAN. If you've found service charges that change from month-to-month bothersome in the past, you'll like our new system. The monthly rate is based entirely on your minimum balance no matter how many checks you write. Our Two/One/Free Plan provides monthly statements and charges are easy to calculate, predict and control from month to month. This is all there is to them:

MINIMUM BALANCE	MONTHLY CHARGE
0 to $299	$2.00
$300 to $499	$1.00
$500 or more	- 0 -

2. THE BASIC CHECKING PLAN. With this plan, too, you'll pay no service charges if your minimum balance is $500 or more. If you now receive monthly statements this is the service charge system you're probably used to, and you may prefer to stay with it. Your monthly charges will vary with the number of checks you write and your minimum balance.

3. TENPLAN®. We haven't changed this popular Bank of America checking service—for people who write few checks and need a statement only once every three months. You pay by the check—15 cents each plus a 50 cents maintenance charge every three months if your minimum balance falls below $100.

4. BANKAMERICARD®/TENPLAN. If you use your BankAmericard for most purchases, you can write fewer checks. With a BankAmericard/Tenplan account, you get a discount on those checks you do write. It's the same as our Tenplan account—with a statement every three months—except that BankAmericard users pay just ten cents per check and no maintenance charge.

Western Weekend Successful Affair

Novato wound up its five-day Western Weekend yesterday with a parade and rodeo that drew smaller crowds than in past years, but packed as much gaiety and frontier flavor into the celebration as ever before. (Pictures on opposite page).

Festivities were unmarred by distrubances despite advance reports that several motorcycle gangs had picked Novato as their rendezvous on a mass ride-out and were likely to make trouble.

The only arrest reported was of one motorcyle rider, Donald Leroy Ragghanttie, 29, of San Francisco, picked up on three traffic warrants from that city.

Police Chief Robert Di Grazia credited the peacefulness in part to a meeting with leaders of the clubs on Friday to plan for their attendance. He also had help from other police departments, he said.

The Novato police were aided by the California Highway Patrol, the Marin County sheriff's office, the San Rafael police department, two dogs and officers from the Richmond police department, the San Leandro police department, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission and the attorney general's office, Di Grazia said.

"The owners of the local bars closing the bars during the celebration also helped," the Chief said.

Dennis Vern Robinson, 20, of Alta, Saskatchewan, Canada, was arrested on suspicion of running a gambling game Friday at the carnival, with bail set at $940, according to Novato police reports. He was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Carpenters, Laborers Back To Jobs

Marin carpenters and laborers were on the job today — carpenters with a temporary solution and laborers with a new contract. Old contracts for both groups expired Saturday.

The laborers agreed Friday to a new three-year contract which includes a wage and fringe benefits package of $1.60 over the three-year period.

Carpenters, at a mass meeting at the Cow Palace in Daly City Friday afternoon, agreed to continue working at least a week to see if a satisfactory solution could be negotiated, a spokesman for Carpenters Local 35 reported.

Negotiators were meeting today in San Francisco.

More than 10,000 carpenters jammed the Cow Palace for the special meeting and thousands more late arrivals crowded the area, snarling traffic for hours, the spokesman said.

A major issue in the negotiations is the length of the work week, the spokesman said. Three years ago, employers offered a 36-hour work week and carpenters accepted. Now, employers feel 40 hours is a must, the spokesman said.

An unofficial check at Friday's meeting indicated most carpenters prefer to continue the 36-hour week, he said.

If a satisfactory agreement is not reached this week, a vote is expected on whether to take strike action.

The Laborers Negotiating Committee of the Joint Venture Employer Group settled the contract with the Northern California District Council of Laborers. It affects all 46 northern counties, including Marin's Hodcarriers Construction and General Laborers Local Union 291 with 700 members.

It calls for an immediate wage increase of 25 cents per hour, another 25 cents on July 1, 1969; and 26 cents on July 1, 1970. Benefits in training, vacation and holidays, pension plans and health and welfare were included in the settlement.

Arts And Crafts Program Slated

A summer arts and crafts program for children 7 to 12 will begin July 15 at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, under the direction of Judianne Foss of San Anselmo. The program will be held from 10 a.m. to noon through July 26.

Also at the center, beginning July 25 ,the continuing weekly landscape painting class given by Dorothy Williams for beginning and advanced students has been scheduled fron 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. for six class periods.

A week-long stitchery seminar for teachers will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 15 through 19 by Janet Van Evera and Marge Krejcik.

Education Board Will Ask Separate Budget

Marin County Board of Education will ask the board of supervisors for the right to handle its own budget at a joint meeting tomorrow morning.

The workshop session will be held at 9 a.m. in Room 400-B of the Civic Center.

At present, the supervisors approve the estimate of anticipated revenue and expenditures submitted by the county superintendent of schools each year. The board of education wants more fiscal responsibility.

The supervisors will reconvene in their chambers at 10:30 a.m. for the regular agenda.

Discussion of local control over firearms will be one of the main morning topics. Another will be over a controversy with the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council on how much authority the EOC should have.

The EOC is balking at proposed requirements that the EOC should notify the county administrator when it initiates any new program applications, and that it furnish the supervisors with a monthly fiscal report.

The afternoon session will open with a discussion of cable television service. The Strawberry Recreation District and other communities have complained that service is slow and inadequate.

A hearing is set for 3 p.m. to discuss changing the Black Point Master Plan to enable a park for 1,800 mobile homes west of Black Point. Alameda Homes Corp. , the developer, also plans commerical areas, apartments, and lagoons on the old Sartori ranch.

Eight Presented Cal Poly Degrees

Eight Marin County residents have received degrees in commencement ceremonies at California State Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo.

They are Christopher J. Ahern of Kentfield, master of arts in education; James C. Davies of Belvedere, bachelor of science in architectural engineering, who alos received an Army Reserve Officer Training Corps commission; Sally K. Boss of Kentfield, bachelor of science in journalism.

Mowat of Novato, bachelor of science in business administration; Bonnie S. Bain of San Rafael, bachelor of science in biological sciences; Robert J. Bray of San Rafael, bachelor of science in business administration, and Susan J. Enemark of San Rafael, bachelor of science in home economics.

Injuries Minor In 101 Accident

A Woodacre woman was injured slightly in a four-car chain reaction collision on Highway 101 Friday afternoon.

Estelle L. Coon, 23, of 137 Central Avenue, was to see her own doctor for an apparent ankle injury. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Allyn Coon, 26. It was the last auto in the four-car crash.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident started when Nancy B. Kimberling, 18, of 834 Hacienda Way, San Rafael, slowed to avoid a box on the freeway. Her car was struck from the rear by a car driven by William J. Deos, 21, of Hamilton Air Force Base, who was struck in turn by a car driven by Kenneth M. Robbins, 45, of 590 Fernando Drive, Novato.

Robbins' car was then struck by Coon's.

Church Blood Drive

St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Kentfield will hold a blood drive Sunday. Parishioners may donate blood at the mobile unit of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank at the church from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., according to Mrs. Creighton Norris of Kentfield.

Three Agencies To Study Actions For Marin City

The Marin County Housing Authority, the Marin County Redevelopment Agency and the Marin City Community Services District will hold a joint meeting tomorrow to discuss how to coordinate the action of the three agencies on matters concerning Marin City.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Neighborhood Center in Marin City.

Also scheduled for the joint meeting are discusions of methods to finance construction of a swimming pool and recreational uses for property previously proposed for a convalescent hospital site. Referral to the high school site committee of Daniel Hayden's suggestion to rebuild the existing commercial area is also on the agenda.

The housing authority and redevelopment agency will each meet following the joint meeting to handle routine business.

Not Army Copter

The helicopter that hit a 12,000-volt power line on a hill east of San Rafael Thursday night, blanketing out parts of Santa Venetia and San Rafael, was not attempting to land at the Nike missile site as reported Friday in the Independent-Journal, an Army spokesman said today. The spokesman also said it was not an Army helicopter.

Marinite Named Favorite Teacher

Dr. John V. Carbone of Kentfield is the favorite teacher of graduating students at the University of California San Francisco Medical Center.

The students selected him as their favorite for all their four years. He was previously voted best teacher in 1967 and in 1968 by third-year medical students. He received the Distinguished Teaching Award, given by the faculty to a member of the staff whom they consider an outstanding teacher during the first five years of full service, in 1959.

He is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and received his medical degree in 1949 from the U.S. School of Medicine in San Francisco.

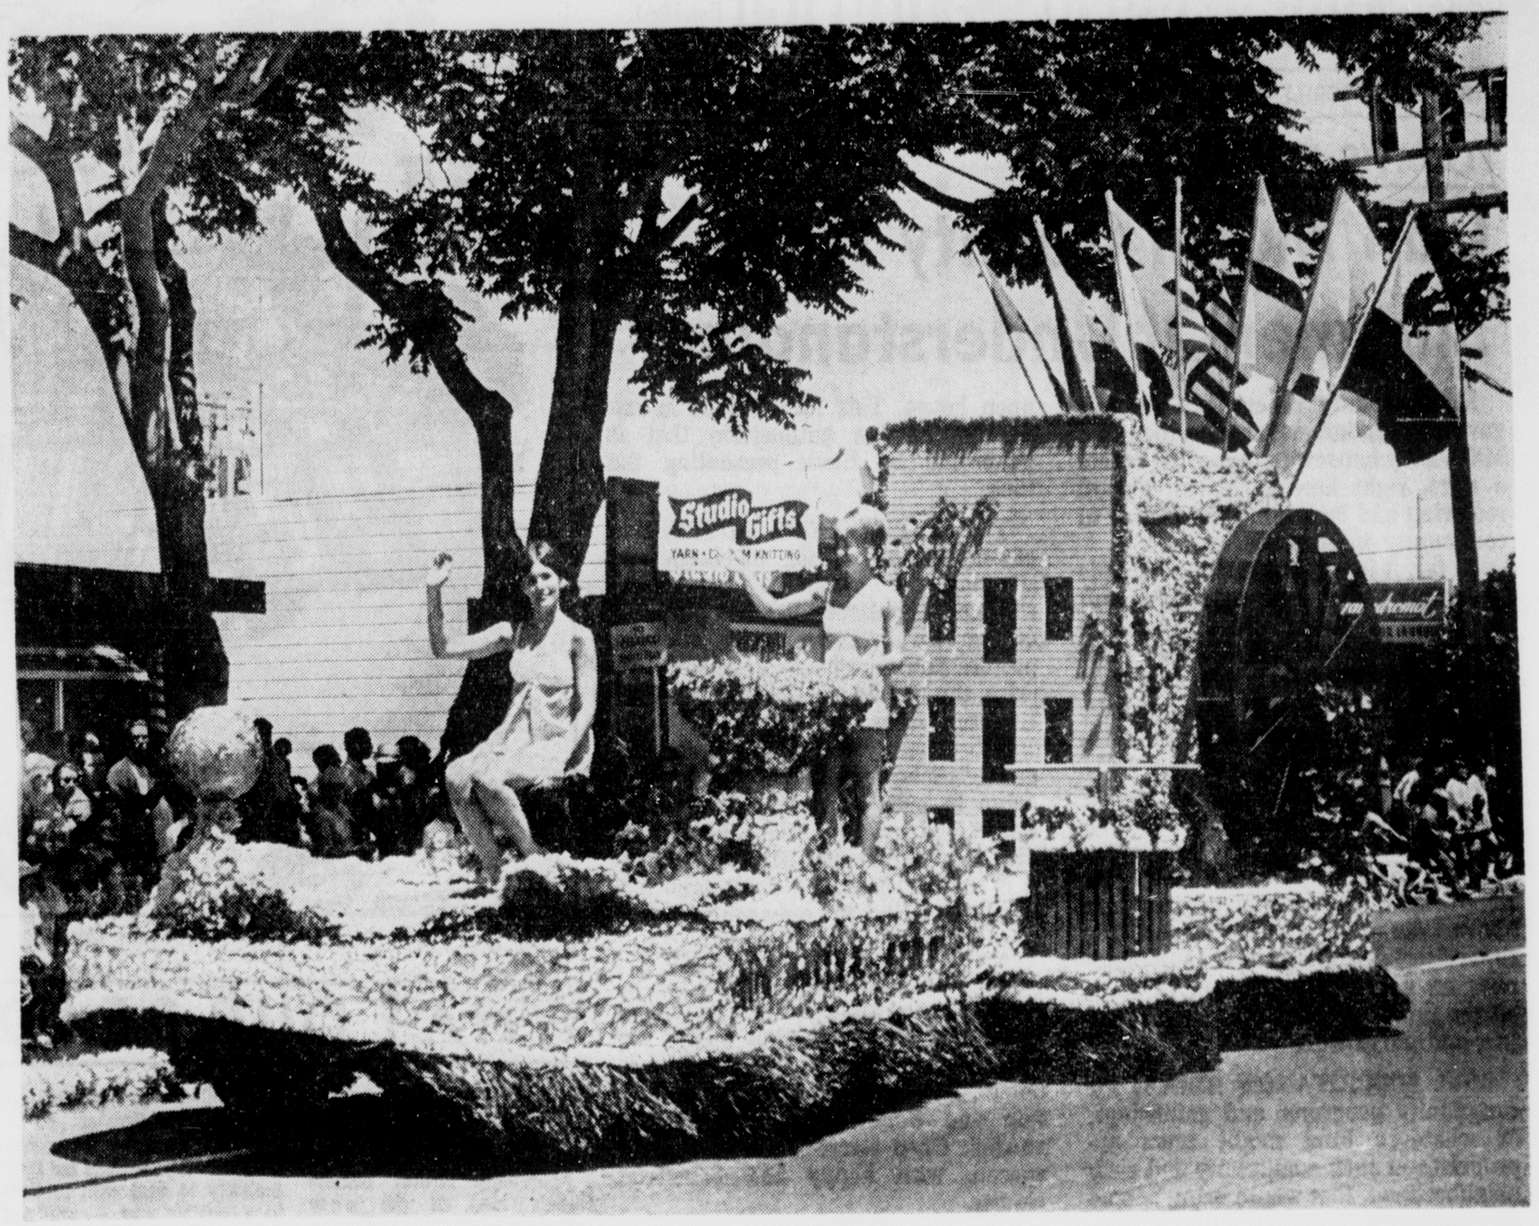
I-J Camera Catches Novato Western Weekend Scenes

POSTING THE COLORS — The Stars and Stripes fly in opposite directions as riders pass in the traditional "post the colors" ritual opening rodeo at Novato Western Weekend, which drew huge crowds on Saturday.



HISTORICAL FLOAT — Among the most lavish floats in the Novato Western Weekend parade was this entry by the Napa Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, depicting an old mill topped by flags that have flown over California in its past and present.

BALLOONS, ANYONE?—It was a hot day as crowd waited, seeking shade, for start of the Western Weekend parade. And along the line came—as at all such events—a seller of balloons, his wares billowing from his shoulder.

Can Marin County Have Summer Of Understanding?

Marin County supervisors recently gave their endorsement to an idea by a Mill Valley housewife that could create a start, right here in Marin, toward restoring and improving the feeling of community in America.

So far, it is only an idea. And simple endorsement by the supervisors will not make it amount to anything. It needs implementation. And that must come not merely from the board of supervisors, but from city councils, district boards, and most of all, from the residents themselves.

The idea was proposed by Jeanne Marie Secchitano. She calls it "A Summer of Understanding."

Recognizing that it is not just something that can be mandated from above, she said in her request for supervisorial endorsement, "Dependency on government leaders to solve all the problems of society is both unjust and unrealistic."

MRS. SECCHITANO'S IDEA is for community programs and gatherings, of whatever kind might seem appropriate in each community and each neighborhood, that would bring people together to enjoy each other's company and talk about community problems. Hence, "A Summer of Understanding."

"The tendency today to assume that money alone can solve problems is a great mistake," she told the supervisors. "People live life and solve its problems. Money in the final analysis plays a minor role. It is enthusiasm which is the creative force behind all accomplishment. Understanding occurs on a one-to-one basis — people to people."

She suggested: "The summer could begin with a day of dedication, with ceremonies that are colorful and exciting. People could be asked to set aside that day to gather with picnic lunches in their parks and then go on to tour service organizations holding open house. This idea can be as expansive as the enthusiasm that is generated by those presenting the idea."

THE SUPERVISORS ADOPTED a resolution calling for meetings and seminars, a campaign to inform residents about activities and purposes of service agencies, and stickers, posters and newspaper articles to apprise the public of the "Summer of Understanding."

Subsequently, when two Terra Linda High School youths proposed a campaign to pick up private arsenals, it was suggested this might be tied in with the "Summer of Understanding." It is hardly what Mrs. Secchitano had in mind, but it is the only concrete suggestion that has come forth so far.

MRS. SECCHITANO'S IDEA has an appeal that is almost universal. But it is the sort of appeal that makes the hearer think, "That would be wonderful, if . . ." It requires the dedication and work of others to get it started. Once started, it might easily spread, with happy and beneficial results.

Like a great American who paid with his life three months ago, Mrs. Secchitano "has a dream." But she will not lead parades nor make speeches to promote that dream; that is not her way. And although her dream bears much resemblance to that of the late Martin Luther King, it does not require marches and perhaps not even speeches. It is a quiet dream.

But no dream can come true without action. We'd like to see the action start on this one. It could start in any club or organization, in any city council or board, or simply in an informal neighborhood gathering to lay plans.

A "Summer of Understanding" might spread beyond Marin. Certainly it is far to be preferred over the long, hot summer of hate and violence that has been widely predicted.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Tough Enforcement, Not More Laws

Apparently Arthur Schlesinger's idea of the new presidential crime commission is a group which will simply O K his insistence that the way to limit crime is through gun control. Those who have different ideas should, "being responsible men," refuse to serve. . . . Typically a closed-minded "liberal" who illiberally wants everything run exactly as he sees it and inferring that those who do not agree favor "the same old business of expressions of hatred!" . . .

I am pretty tired of hearing American being sold the idea that the whole country is guilty if anyone suffers from the lack of anything which others by hard work and care have managed to earn or save. Most Americans, as Eric Hoffer says, are very soft-hearted. I'm afraid they are showing themselves to be soft-headed as well, at this point, or they would be writing by the thousands asking for tough law enforcement instead of gun laws.

Peace Negotiations Needed At Home

During the last couple of weeks, we have all heard the controversial debate by numerous individuals . . . as to where the guilt of Robert F. Kennedy's death lies. Does the burden of his death rest upon the American people or does the responsibility lie solely on the man who pulled the trigger of the gun? . . .

Un fortunately, I have found entirely too many people blaming the sole individual who shot him. They say it is not their fault that there are nuts like him running around the country, but let us take this incident a step further. Because of the change in attitude during the past months and the increasing amount of violent acts being committeed does it not logically follow that there are not only a few nuts running around, but obviously a starling number? . . .

I say, we are all deviating from sane, sensible, thinking individuals to embittered, enraged, uncontrollable human beings. We are all guilty of increasing our prejudices, our bitternesses and our hatred. We are all responsible for the disease that is ravaging our country and tearing us apart from other nations and from one another. Obviously this will only end up in disaster. . . .

In the past, we have condemned other nations for their inability to deal with matters in a sensible way. . . .and yet here we stand today, a nation that is becoming the worst offender of violence. . . .

People are crying out something must be done, but in their second breath, they claim it is the fault of the police, the fault of our judicial system, and the fault of our administration. I say it is our fault and it is the responsibility of each American to help right this terrible wrong . . .

Dear God, we are an educated people. Is it too much to ask for peace negotiatons to be carried out between ourselves in the United States? We teach other countries that only over the peace table can problems be solved. . . .

America's Only Hope Is In Christ

People, pray for America!

Our only hope is in the Lord Jesus Christ whose Holy Spirit is alive and with all who accept, to help us become obedient in doing what God would have us do if America is going to survive. We must all help in these perilous times.

I commend the two boys from Terra Linda High who are on a gun collection crusade.

My father, a grocer, kept a gun near at hand for years which he thought he might use on anyone who might try to rob him but the gun was used to kill my own brother. He was 14 at the time. He was shot by his friend . . .

God's command is to love our neighbor as ourself. Read II Chronicles 7:14.

Reagan, Rafferty, Murphy Compared

Fact is stranger than fiction.

If one investigates the reactionary records of Reagan, Rafferty and Murphy, the threesome, with no political educational background in their present elected jobs, it would be difficult to find equitable representation for the constituents involved.

Two of these gentlemen double talk a great deal and do nothing. The third says nothing and does nothing.

Fine representation for the country's most populous state!

Time To Remove Religious Hatreds

What should the Senator Kennedy assasination teach us? That stricter gun laws are necessary? Yes, but everyone should know by now that violence is bred by hatred. Once the hatred is implanted, methods will be found to express it. Firearms are the periphery, not the center of this problem.

Mr. Sirhan, the assasin, received a free higher education, paid by the taxpayers of this country. He received gainful employment here, and knew that the U.S. was the main prop for his native Jordan. Yet, because the U.S. diplomatically recognized Isreal, Sirhan refused American citizenship. In his scale of priorities, hatred of the Jews and the State of Israel overshadowed everything. When Robert Kennedy announced support of Israel's right to exist, this triggered Sirhan's fanatical hatred into overt action.

This is but one of countless instances showing the terrible legacy bequeathed by religious hatred. Isn't it about time we removed these hatreds and the violence they breed?

Sometimes War Is Lesser Evil

In Tuesday's, June 11 "What Our Readers Say," Philip H. Drath states, "Peace is a state of mind that outlaws war, outlaws it for any reason and for always."

What would you have done in 1776 and 1860, Mr. Drath? Evidently, you would have chosen to remain a British subject owning Negro slaves. My point is, sometimes, regrettably, war is the lesser of two evils. . . .

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Rockefeller Out To Prove He's Winner For Republicans

WASHINGTON — It must seem fantastic to many people that Nelson Rockefeller should think he has a serious chance of getting the Republican nomination.

But he does and my purpose is to examine why he thinks so and what he is doing about it.

Rockefeller is simply refusing to take no for an answer and he doesn't believe he will have to if he can effectively sharpen his differences with Richard Nixon.

This will be a central purpose of Rockefeller's stepped-up campaign.

NATURALLY he would like to get Nixon on a nationwide joint televison appearance. The reason is that he feels it would point up their divergent approaches to such compelling issues as how best to further racial justice, how to dissolve the climate of violence, how to deal with ghetto poverty, and possibly on how to get peace in Vietnam on which Nixon has lately been silent.

Now, why would making their differences more visible help Rockefeller? He believes that Nixon's position on these issues would help Nixon mostly with Republican voters who are already behind him and hurt Nixon with Democratic and independent voters who are far less drawn to him. And there are more of them. This, in turn, would serve to lift Rockefeller's standing in the polls.

THE IMPORTANCE of this strategy rests on these facts:

There is only one circumstance under which the GOP convention will give Rockefeller the nomination — that is, if he is a virtually certain winner over any Democrat and Nixon is a very uncertain winner. The latest Gallup poll, for example, shows Humphrey running 6 per cent ahead of Nixon but only 3 per cent ahead of Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's whole campaign, from here to the convention, will be aimed, not primarily at influencing the delegates, but at influencing his standing in the polls as the candidate who would best insure a Republican victory in November.

Rockefeller aides, including five past Republican national chairmen, one of whom was Barry Goldwater's running-mate, William Miller, are now making this case to GOP delegates in their efforts to stem the Nixon tide:

1. Rockefeller has never lost an election and Nixon has not won an election on his own since 1952. Polls showed Rockefeller couldn't possibly be nominated for governor of New York in 1958 and that he was not likely to defeat the incumbent Averell Harriman. He was nominated. He was elected. Polls showed him to be far behind in his third-term bid two years ago. He reversed the trend, won comfortably.

2. Conservatives who got to know Rockefeller find he doesn't have horns. He believes in fiscal responsibility and practices it. He has run a balanced budget every year he has been in office. The political climate in New York state has been such as to attract new industry.

3. Rockefeller has had long and varied experience in the federal government under three presidents. He has had extensive executive experience as governor of New York. He has proved himself vividly aware of the most acute national problems of poverty, race relations, and crime, has the background and training to deal with them and the talent of leadership needed to deal with them.

THESE ARE the pro-Rockefeller arguments and it is a fair assumption they will fall on unreceptive ears unless on the eve of the convention the polls show that Nixon is slipping and would be an exceedingly riskful choice.

The only key Rockefeller has to open the door to his nomination is to demonstrate, if he can, his clearly superior electability.

Court Decision Punches Hole In Public's Right To Know

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The battle for the public's right to know is one of continuous fighting, and as in any battle, it is not surprising that gound is lost on occasion.

The latest blow to this right comes in a decision by the Third District Court of Appeals, which modified a preliminary injunction issued by the Superior Court of Sacramento County. The preliminary injunction held that meetings of the board of supervisors were to be open to the public except for statutory exceptions in the case of employment or discharge, complaint against an employee, or national security.

In the appelate decision, Judge Leonard Friedman modified the original injunction by stating, "It shall not prevent the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors from consulting privately with the county counsel or other attorney representing the board under circumstances in which the lawyer-client privilege conferred by the California evidence code may lawfully be claimed."

IN ALL OTHER respects, the provisions of the Brown Act, adopted by the state Legislature to insure the public's right to know, were upheld.

But the crux of the decision is that it will tolerate future secret sessions not only of the board in Sacramento County, but to other local government boards as well, by making it impossible for newsmen and other interested members of the public to attend what the legislature intended to be open meetings.

Judge Friedman, in reaching this conclusion after some 25 pages of argument, invoked laws relating to the inviolability of the lawyer-client relationship, laws which were passed long before the Brown Act came into being.

WHAT NEWSMEN fear now is that the Friedman decision may be used as a device for permitting local government boards to close meetings on the basis that they are being conducted on a lawyer-client relationship, but at which others matters of public interest will be discussed.

Local government agencies have been reluctant to accept provisions of the Brown Act ever since its adoption, and many of them circumvented provisions requiring open meetings by holding so-called unofficial sessions at meeting places other than the official site for holding such meetings.

This occurred in the instant case, when the board held such an "unofficial" session at the Elks Club in Sacramento with its counsel, executive, director of social welfare, and members of the Sacramento Central Labor Council.

THE QUESTION being discussed was a strike of Sacramento County social welfare workers, and whether the strike was to be supported by the labor council.

Reporters were denied admission to the meeting, whereupon the Newspaper Guild, as a public service, sought and obtained the injunction prohibiting such "rump sessions.

In good conscience, there are few if any local board meetings sensitive enough to deny the public knowledge.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

After a week of fervent revivalist meetings, the skillful preacher whipped his congregation into a frenzy of enthusiasm with his sermon on "The Search for the Perfect Man." "Does any man in this audience," he asked in one of his less emotional moments, "believe for a minute that there is a truly perfect man in this communit?" A meek little fellow startled everybody by leaping to his feet. "Do you mean to tell us," challenged the preacher, "that you are a perfect man?" "Not me," the meek one hastened to explain. "I'm standing up for my wife's first husband."

A professional fund raiser complained to Arthur Godfrey that he had ignored several letters inviting him to join this and that honorary committee. "All your mail," explained Godfrey, "was on stationery emblazoned 'From the desk of So-and-So's—and I never correspond with furniture."

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Foreign Recipients Renege On U.N. Debts

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The powerful congressional bloc opposing the voting of more billions for foreign aid is injecting a new issue into the closely contested controversy.

The point is being made that some of the principal beneficiaries of U.S. aid and some of the harshest foes of the U.S. are heavily in arrears in payments for the maintenance of the United Nations, its various agencies and peacekeeping forces. Foremost among these unpublicized debtors, as of March 31, 1968, are:

RUSSIA — which soaringly tops the list with an astounding unpaid total of $80.106 million. Of this amount, $13.217 million is owing on the regular UN budget; $39.223 million on the UN Congo account; $27.162 million on the UN Emergency Force.

The seven other Iron Curtain countries owe an additional $28.392 million — making a combined total for the Communist bloc of $108.498 million. Topping the satellite list is the Ukraine with $9.778 million; Poland, $5.766 million; Czechoslovakia, $5.208 million; Hungary $2.713 million; Rumania, $1.518 million.

FRANCE — which owes the U.S. around $7 billion in World War I debts, and to which the U.S. gave some $9 billion in economic and military aid following World War II — $17.796 million. This UN indebtedness was accumulated under President De Gaulle, who has made utmost use of the UN to criticize, harass and oppose the U.S.

NATIONALIST CHINA — $21.848 million, of which $9.836 million is in unpaid budget dues; $6.687 million on the UN Congo account; $5.274 million on the UN Emergency Force. The Chiang Kai-shek regime, the beneficiary of more than $5 billion in U.S. aid, is still getting a considerable amount of such assistance.

Other sizable UN debtors are — Argentina, $2.69 million; Mexico, $1.465 million; Cuba, $907,875; United Arab Republic, $400.333; Yugoslavia, $340.867; Venezuela, $557.256; the Philippines, $367.797; Peru, $287.925; India, $187,545; Pakistan, $140.000; Saudi Arabia, $144.377.

In citing these little-known figures, Rep. Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., member of the Foreign Affairs Committee who is demanding drastic foreign aid curtailment, contends that UN members, big and small, in default on their payments should be barred from participating and voting.

SO WIDESPREAD and powerful has congressional opposition become to voting more billions for foreign aid that it's anyone's guess when the President's proposed long-stalled $2.9 billion budget will be acted on.

The required authorizing legislation has been stalled for months in both the Senate and House foreign affairs committeees.

So powerful is the bipartisan opposition in both committees that even if bills are finally reported out, the President's "bare bones" request is certain to be drastically slashed. He will be lucky if he winds up with $1.5 billion.

Last year the House came within eight votes of killing foreign aid outright.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By WAT TAKESHITA

It's Often 'Guns For Protection' That Snuff Out Human Life

The idea that every homeowner should have unrestricted access to pistols and rifles so that he can protect his home and family stirs the imagination and satisfies the ego.

That idea, while perfectly applicable in the days when a family banded together inside a log cabin to defend itself against savages and wild animals, has little or no application today in suburban Marin.

We are convinced that a survey of the files of the sheriff's office will show that the bulk of the gun injuries result from the victim's own weapon or weapons owned within the family or among friends.

In our years of covering the crime beat, we cannot recall a single instance where a life was saved or a crime prevented because a man had a revolver under his pillow or a deer rifle with telescopic sights on the gun rack inside his home.

ON THE OTHER hand, there are countless cases where a would-be gunslinger shoots himself in the toe or thigh, practicing fast-draw, or a gun goes off "accidentally" during a domestic argument or while the owner is cleaning the weapon.

In many cases, weapons stolen from the homes of law-abiding citizens wind up in the wrong hands and turn out to be weapons of destruction in other parts of the county or state.

The stock argument is that it's no use curbing weapons because the criminal element will acquire them anyway. This is true. But by the same token, it is equally true that the more weapons in circulation among the total population, the more chance for the criminal element to accumulate arsenals through theft or purchase.

EVEN MODEST restrictions on gun ownership, such as annual registration, can be of some value. Even now, fishermen accept the fact that a game warden can approach them at any time to ask for their fishing licenses. The annual licenses are detailed to the point of requiring trout stickers before you can fish for trout.

Why not gun registrations? Law enforcement officers would be able to check registrations at random as they do with fishing licenses.

Those who picture themselves as Wyatt Earp, blasting away with six-shooters for the protection of home and family, are living in the past. Those who see the gun as "the great equalizer" between the weak and the strong are advocating survival of the fittest, the fastest, and the deadliest shots.

We submit that the greatest equalizers now are our system of laws and the duly constituted law enforcement agencies, not loaded revolvers in the bedroom and telescopic sights on the gun rack.

IT IS TRUE we have crime and violence in the streets and cities. But combatting such crimes and violence must be by community effort through regular law enforcement agencies. If individuals were encouraged to use guns to protect themselves and their homes against every "noise in the attic" or a prowler near the window, we'd end up with a lot of dead drunks who knocked on the wrong door, or boyfriends trying to sneak a rendezvous, or hungry youngsters attempting to scrounge for food and Coke.

Against a real criminal, bent on crime and destruction, you'd be outmanned, outdrawn and outshot. Each of us, acting individually, would stand little chance against armed thugs and gangs. Against such elements, community effort is the only answer.

Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other. — Benjamin Franklin.

AMA Critics Take Podium For Attack

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two critics, who accuse the American Medical Association of ignoring the poor and racial minorities, seized the microphone yesterday at the beginning of the AMA convention. The microphone went dead but the speakers continued to castigtae the society for about 25 minutes.

NOT SCHEDULED

The unscheduled speakers, a Stanford University medical student and a representative of the Bay Area Poor People's Campaign, took over the podium as 1,000 doctors and their wives watched at the AMA's 117th annual convention.

Outside the Fairmont Hotel on Nob Hill 36 pickets, most of them doctors and health workers, marched and carried signs charging the AMA with economic and racial discrimination.

Shouting to be heard, James Schnall, the medical student, said, "I don't think you people have the right to call yourselves humanists—much less the right to treat the poor.

BACK POOR

"Have you ever even heard the poor? Have you ever listened to them?" Schnall asked.

The response was a few boos and calls for Schnall's ouster from the podium directly in front of the 242 members of the AMA's policy making house of delegates.

The speakers and the demonstrators on the street represented the Medical Committee on Human Rights and the Poor People's Campaign. The organizations are attempting to get the AMA to "join the fight against poverty and hunger" and "put more blacks in medical schools."

NOT ON SCHEDULE

Dr. Milfrod O. Rouse, outgoing president of the AMA, said the medical committee representatives were not allowed a scheduled time to address the opening session because "we have procedures to follow."

Rouse said the AMA was concerned about the same types of problems as the committee, "but we are attacking them in an orderly manner.

Landslides usually are caused by thaws, heavy rains, earthquakes or erosion.

New Birth Control Shots Held Workable

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An antipregnancy shot that stops conception for six months has been tested effectively with relatively few side effects, a birth control expert told the American Medical Association today.

While the twice yearly birth control injections have not been tested enough for general use, considerably more progress has been made with 30 and 90 day contraceptive shots, Dr. Edward T. Tyler reported to the AMA's section on obstetrics and gynecology.

Tyler, who operates family planning centers in Los Angeles and Venice, predicted that within the "foreseeable future," the birth control injections would take their place alongside "the pill" as a routine guard against pregnancy.

The physician, who has been experimenting with various chemical combinations for the past six years, said the main problems to be solved before the shots can be used regularly are irregular menstrual cycles and a delayed return to fertility when the treatment is ended.

But, he said, the convenience of the relatively infrequent treatments, and the decreased possibility of forgetfulness on the part of the woman make the experimental program worthwhile.

Tyler, a pioneer in development of the oral contraceptive, indicated work was furthest along on the "once-a-month" injection which closely resembles, in its chemical makeup, the formula for the pill. It is a combination of estrogen and progestogen, two natural hormones responsible for many of the sexual characteristics of women.

More than 500 women have volunteered for the program, Tyler said, and, although some dropped out, there was no pregnancies among those who continued.

The most troublesome of the problems—maintenance of a regular menstrual flow—did not materialize with the 30 day shots. menstruation lasted somewhat longer than normal, "but the longer flow does not seem to have been associated with increase in the total amount of bleeding," Tyler said.

Although there were complaints among the volunteers of pain, anxiety and tension, Tyler said, these complaints were actually higher before treatment began.

More than 200 women participated in the once-every-three-months program, in which a progestogen-only formula was utilized. Complaints of irregular menstruation multiplied, Tyler said, and only about one-third of the group regained fertility with six months following termination of the treatment.

"Virtually all patients ovulated within a year of the last injection," Tyler said.

Tyler reported that with the three-month injection, "the grossly irregular bleeding pattern was accepted quite well by our group of forewarned subjects, but how the average woman will accept this remains to be established."

The physician said the six-month injection experiment was not far enough along to evalute thoroughly.

HUMPHREY MOVE?

McCarthy Rules Out Leading Third Party

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says he might support a third party movement if the Democrats and Republicans offered the voters "no choice." But he ruled out leading such a move.

He also indicated that he expects to get support from delegates committed to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, but does not plan to make a public plea for them to rally to his presidential campaign.

SEES 'DISTRESS'

In an interview telecast in New York City yesterday, McCarthy foresaw "great political distress" if both major parties nominated candidates who favor the status quo in American foreign and domestic policies.

If the major parties and their nominees continued to support the policies he has opposed in his campaign, McCarthy said, then a large number of people would feel they don't "have a chance to make a choice" and a third party movement might develop.

He might support such a move if there was "no choice" between the major party nominees and if "a good substantial person...would make the effort."

As for the Kennedy delegates, the Minnesota senator said, "I don't know whether I will call upon them in that particular name. I think to the extent that they're concerned about the same issues I'm concerned about that they would respond..."

SOME TO JOIN

While he said some of Kennedy's aides will not join his campaign, "I would expect that some of them would come. I would expect that at least—whether they come over formally and participate in the campaign or not—I don't know, but I would think that their political commitment, their ideological commitment would pretty much be such that they would support me."

In other political developments:

Richard M. Nixon—The former vice president's campaign manager said yesterday he expects Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's standing in the public opinion polls to improve before the GOP convention but predicted Nixon will still get the presidential nomination. John Mitchell made the statement after a weekend strategy meeting of Nixon backers in Chicago.

NIXON FORECAST

Newsweek Magazine, meanwhile, said Nixon has moved into a commanding position to win a first ballot victory at the convention. Newsweek said Nixon could lose, however, if he did not get the nomination on the first or second ballot.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey—Bill Moyers, former press secretary to President Johnson, predicted yesterday Vice President Humphrey would soon make public his differences with the Administration. He said Humphrey might emerge as the fighting liberal of old and again become the spokesman for the young, the black and the poor "and to win the election with their confidence."

The Vice President, Moyers said, has long questioned America's Vietnam policy and would begin making these differences known probably this week."

REAGAN OUTLOOK

Ronald Reagan—The California governor, a darkhorse in the GOP presidential race, said public dissatisfaction is so vast in this country that the national mood is to throw incumbents out of office whatever their political philosophies. Reagan also denied that he was a candidate for the GOP nomination.

Nelson A. Rockefeller — The New York governor proposed that the United States and its European allies consider trade restrictions against East Germany to retaliate for the new "harassment" of West Berlin.

George Wallace—Third party candidate Wallace called for the resignation of Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark for "utterly failing" to check disorders throughout the nation. The former Alabama governor also said he might try to form a coalition government with the Democratic or Republican presidential cnadidate if he hold a balance of power in the electoral college after the November election.

Susie's Swinging Fashions

Meet Susie. She's an energetic, bubbly, mini-skirted designer who usually runs instead of walks. If the day had 25 hours, Susie would want 26.

Susan Mendelsohn, the 24-year-old designer of junior fashions surrounds herself in a world of flowers. From the daisy appearing on the hang tag, to the posies painted on the bathroom ceiling of her chic Eastside studio apartment, to the daisies, tulips and butterflies that decorate her busy design room, it's a combine of color and cheerfulness which animates Susie.

After graduating from Parsons School of Sesign in 1964, Susie tried her hand in junior swimsuits, children's wear, junior sportswear and now is happily turning out her own original collection for a large chain department store.

Susie, personally, is as feminine as sugar and spice, and at the same time, has a certain subtle chic. She is as animated as the clothes she creates and is a realist in that she takes pride in seeing her designs sell at volume level to teens and young juniors.

SUSAN "SUSIE" MENDELSOHN

A dream-like quality, combined with her realistic attitude, is what makes Susie fun and what makes Susue's designs so refreshingly new.

She has a very special approach to summer with her "Young International Designer Collection." Her designs are right-this-minute, geared for action and full of vitality.

Whether she works with fragile voiles, airy leno weaves or polka dotted canvas, Susie sees the "little girl" look as perhaps the most important trend for summer 1968. Add to this, her inventive interpretations, relying as they do on a refreshing interplay of fabric, trim and design, and you have a collection to win the approval of the young.

Susie believes strongly in short hemlines, particularly in their rightness for young girls on the go. But she hasn't overlooked the influential midi. Two very feminine, softly romantic midis appear in her first collection. Susie sees them as a beautiful change of pace for afternoon and evening wear. In these styles, as in most of her designs, the return to fit shows up in either fitted waists, gentle shaping or novelty belts.

She's quick to adapt and update, staying a little ahead of fads, admitting that "there's very little that can be considered new in fashion — the game is evolution, not revolution."

Couple Receive Papal Blessing

Suzanne Lee Helms of Sleepy Hollow and George Richard Yanko of Sausalito were married Sunday in a noon ceremony at Our Lady of Loretto Church in Nicasio.

The couple received word from Rome through Cardinal Cicognani, secretary of state for the Vatican, that their marriage has been given a special Papal blessing by Pope Paul VI.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John Stewart of Mill Valley, and bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Sally Helms of Sleepy Hollow. John Stewart of Mill Valley was best man, and usher was the bride's brother, Peter J. Helms of Morro Bay.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the San Geronimo National Golf and Country Club, and afterward the couple said they would "auto to San Simeon Castle." They will live in Sausalito.

A graduate of Marin Catholic High School, Suzanne has been employed in free lance promotion.

A graduate of Pomona Catholic High School, the bridegroom attended the University of Santa Clara and was graduated from San Jose State College. He is the production manager for "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" and is the former road manager of the Kingston Trio.

One Pillow Promotes Memories For Happily Married Couple

DEAR HELEN:

We love our new daughter-in-law and know she is the right one for our only son. However, we love our first daughter-in-law too. The divorce didn't change our affection for her, nor hers for us. These two simply weren't suited for each other.

Our problem is, now that there's a daughter-in-law Number 2, should we continue seeing d-in-l Number 1? She is engaged and will soon be married. Is it fair to her, our son and his new wife and most of all, to her fiance to prolong our friendship even though we sincerely enjoy her company? All the hurts have gone but we still don't want to keep rubbing salt into the wound.

I've thought of writing her a little note telling her we'll always remember her but won't be seeing her again. Please let us know soon: a visit together is now hanging fire. — MRS. S.R.

DEAR MRS. S.R.:

Why make a burning issue out of a relationship that will cool naturally? There's no reason why you and d-in-l Number 1 can't always be friends, but she will gradually move out of your orbit when she has a new husband and family. You'll see.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

When we were first married, we had only one pillow. That's all we could afford at the time.

I will never forget how close it kept us during the first year of marriage. By the time we could afford two new ones, I felt no pain in throwing the old one out, for the closeness we had before remained with us throughout the years. — PILLOWTALK

DEAR HELEN:

As a reader of human relations columns (we used to call them lovelorn) for some 40 years, I note that kids, or people, don't change much. From one generation to the next, they have all the same problems and most of the same reactions. They're only just pushed a little closer together and stacked a little higher. And everything and everyone runs faster.

I guess advice columns are among the best read articles in the paper now because people are just dizzier on a larger scale.—PEG

DEAR PEG:

. . . Also more worried and more anxious to hear the problems of others so theirs won't seem so great. Or, perhaps so that they'll know they aren't alone. . . . Or maybe just to be entertained.

At any rate, let's hope you keep reading so that I can keep writing.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is the fourth time I've written to you. I can't give my name but please answer in the column.

I went with this guy for two years. I had his baby four months ago but, by that time he'd chickened out and gone back to his wife. He now treats her the way he used to treat me. What's more I found out that when he took me on vacation trips, he always came back early so he could take his wife on the same kind of trip.

I've told him I'm going to tell his wife everything and he threatens to beat me up. But, get this, Helen: he still wants to go on with our relationship. He told me this last night after insisting that I give the baby up for adoption. He says I should give him time and he can work something out. Should I help matters along by sending an anonymous letter to his wife? — O.W.

DEAR O:

Why not help yourself and toss this cheater back to his wife. I think she can handle him better than you can.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Industry People Are Realistic

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Advertising, marketing and public relations textbooks should be written by people in industry rather than professors, say college seniors who recently spent a month interning in the advertising department of a corporation here.

"The business way of doing things impressed us as being more practical and efficient than what we have been taught in the classroom," the Bethany College students said. "If industry management wrote textbooks, students would have a more realistic picture of what to expect when they come to the job."

Psychology Of The Meal

DALLAS (UPI)—The way the table looks can often make things easier for somebody on a strict diet, and may make Johnny look more kindly on the spinach.

Psychologists find the way foods are served and the table settings do much to set the mood of the meal.

A dieter can find his strict meal more palatable in pleasant surroundings. Things children do not like can be made attractive with proper garnishes or colorful table arrangements.

Use much color, but coordinate the combinations; use cloths or mats in the family's favorite colors; vary the colors often; use two sets of dinnerware in combinations; add some extra pieces such as contrasting cups or salad plates, for interest; don't be timid about combining plastic with earthenware or china or glassware—they can be compatible partners in table settings.

Another idea—have an occasional family buffet. It can break the pattern of table settings and give the family more practice in guest buffets.

Linda Booze Wed Saturday

The Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley was the setting for the wedding Saturday of Linda Booze of Mill Valley and Cecil B. Morehouse Jr. of Boulder, Colo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Booze Jr. of Mill Valley and the bridegroom is the son of Cecil B. Morehouse of Wheatridge, Colo.

Bridal attendants were Carolyn Moore of Denver, Colo., maid of honor; and Betty Basom of Mill Valley and Diane Sandberg of Windham, N.H., bridesmaids.

Michael A. Hawks of Larkspur was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Thomas Booze of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom's brother, Lawrence Morehouse of Wheatridge.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will take a wedding trip to Pebble Beach and then go to Boulder, where they will live.

A graduate of Tamalpais High School, the bride completed her junior year at the University of Colorado. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Lenore J. Booze of Kentfield and R. W. Booze of San Clemente.

The bridegroom was graduated from Wheatridge High School and also completed his junior year at the University of Colorado. He is employed at Safeway Stores in Boulder. He has another brother, Jeffery Morehouse of Wheatridge, and a sister, Christine Morehouse of Arlington, Va.

Don A. Rogers Marries In Washington Rite

A home wedding at Yelm, Wash., was the nuptial scene for Don Allen Rogers of Greenbrae and Judith Ann Schader of Yelm. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Melvin Schader, hosted the small family affair.

Judith Ann is a sister of Robert Schader of New York and Dick and Barbara Schader of Yelm. Maris Picou of New York was maid of honor with Gary Rogers serving as best man for his brother.

A reception was held at the home following the ceremony and prior to the couple's departure for Victoria, Canada. From there they are driving south to Venice.

The bride will be doing graduate work at the University of California at Los Angeles in theater arts. She is a graduate of Mt. Rainier High School and attended the University of Washington before becoming a student and graduate of Stanford University.

Don, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Rogers of Greenbrae, was graduated from Redwood High School and Stanford University. He is enrolled at the UCLA Medical School where he was elected president of the sophomore class. He will work with the Student Health Organization in Venice on a summer project. He is the grandson of P. Thomas Rogers of Sacramento and a brother of James Rogers of Greenbrae.

Sweet-Sour

Apple pepper relish is a sweet-sour accompaniment for cold cuts. Mix 2 cups canned apple sauce with 1 cup of brown sugar, ½ cup each of cider vinegar, finely chopped green pepper, finely chopped onions and minced pimiento in a saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until thickened, about 20 minutes. Chill overnight to blend flavors. Makes 2 cups.

Knits For Men

Will men soon be wearing knitted suits? "Gentleman's Quarterly" tells of textured knits bonded to smooth knits to create a fabric that is lightweight and shape-retentive. One manufacturer has used this fabric to make a sport jacket. The fabric is white mesh bonded to green tricot. Don't register surprise if matching pants soon come off the production line.

SANTA ROSA will be the home of the former Margaret Ann Doidge of Santa Rosa and Gordon A. Chisholm Jr. of San Anselmo. The couple were married at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Sacramento. Mrs. Chisholm is employed at the Community Hospital in Santa Rosa. He is serving in the U.S. Army and expects to report for Vietnam duty the end of the month.

Extra Flavor

For extra flavor and spiciness, add a few drops of aromatic bitters to ginger ale, colas, limeade or orange juice.

Leak Halts Critical Apollo Test Mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—A hard to find leak in the world's largest space vacuum chamber late yesterday delayed the final pre-flight test of the Apollo moonship four hours, but officials were confident they could make up the lost time.

Other problems with the chamber last week delayed the seven and one-half day test—a final, critical exam for Apollo—for four days.

The new leak cropped up about 4 p.m. PDT, about eight hours after three astronauts entered the model Apollo to start the make-believe mission. The astronauts remained inside the Apollo throughout the four-hour hold.

If the test is a success—and officials are sure it will be—it can clear the way for a crew headed by astronaut Walter Schirra to make the first real manned Apollo flight this September. Schirra's mission will last up to 10 days, orbiting the earth.

Test crew astronauts Joe Kerwin, Vance Brand and Joe Engle were to follow a "flight plan" patterned after Schirra's mission. The huge vacuum chamber they are in can duplicate everything about space except weightlessness.

They started the test—and will end it—wearing the latest white Apollo space suits. Most of the time in the cramped, cone-shaped craft they will wear non-burning coveralls made of beta fabric—far more comfortable than the space suits.

The 177 hour mock flight is designed to make sure their craft performs as advertised under the harsh conditions of space. It was built at the same North American Rockwell Corp. plant in Downey, Calif., where spacegoing Apollos are made, and officials say it looks good.

Fairfax Youths' Plea Entry Set

Plea entries for Gary Victor Scozzafava, 20, and Lawrence Michael Lenhart, 19, accused of marijuana possession have been scheduled in Marin Municipal Court for 1:30 p.m. June 21.

The men, both of 440 Scenic Avenue, Fairfax, were halted in a car by San Anselmo police early Thursday to check faulty tail lights. Scozzafava was unable to produce a driver's license, officers said, and questioning resulted in disclosure of a parcel containing more than two pounds of what appeared to be marijuana in the vehicle's back seat.

While booking Lenhard at County Jail, another supply of the substance was found in his possession, officers added. Scozzafava was also cited for driving without a license, police said.

'Kennedy-King Hall Of Justice' Name Proposed

How about naming Marin's new Hall of Justice as the "Kennedy-King Hall of Justice"?

This question will be posed Tuesday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors by County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker.

Zucker said a member of his staff Betty London, suggested the name of symbolize the efforts of Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King, both victims of assassins' bullets.

"This name memorial could find no better expression that here in the world famous Frank Lloyd Wright Civic Center Building," said Zucker. "The constant use of the names, together, could serve to inspire the unity of all the people here in the county as well. Connecting these names to the cause of justice also has obvious significance."

North Korean Killed In Border Skirmish

SEOUL (UPI)—South Korean troops guarding the midwestern portion of the Demilitarized Zone killed a North Korean infiltrator today, army headquarters announced.

It was the second border skirmish along the line that separates the two Koreas in three days. On Saturday South Korean soldiers fought a 15-minute gunbattle with four infiltrators and killed one of them. The army spokesman said no South Koreans were injured in the incidents.

Romney Son Slightly Hurt In Fatal French Collision

BORDEAUX, France (UPI)—Willard "Mitt" Romney, son of Gov. George Romney of Michigan, suffered slight injuries yesterday in a two-car collision that killed the wife of the president of the Mormon mission to France.

Mrs. Leola S. Anderson died two hours after the accident. Her husband, H. Duane Anderson, suffered five broken ribs. Both were professors at San Bernardino Valley Junior College.

A spokesman at the Latter-day Saints Church mission in Paris said the party was traveling from Bordeaux to Pall on church business when their car collided with an auto that was traveling at high speed in the wrong lane. Romney was driving, the spokesman said.

KQED Auction Breaks Record

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Educational television station KQED has reported that its annual auction to raise funds broke all records.

Sales recorded totaled $318,442 as compared with last year's figure of $288,000. The station said at least another $10,000 was expected from purchases made in the closing hours and still unconfirmed.

Last items bid for included an $8,200 East Africa safari, a $5,800 P & O Circle Pacific voyage, a 1931 Chrysler and an Audobon print for $750.

Paintings, Furs, Phono Gear Taken

Two burglaries, one involving theft of two oil paintings worth a total of $3,000 and three silver fox furs, were reported Friday by sheriff's officers.

Esther Alpers, 110 Circle Road, San Rafael, told deputies Wednesday that someone broke a window near her front door, then reached through to unlock the door and enter.

The home was ransacked, she said, and the paintings, furs, a portable typewriter, a stereophonic phonograph, and two French table lamps were stolen.

Margaret D. Greene, 61 Morningsun Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, reported Wednesday that burglars apparently entered her unlocked patio door, then stole a $200 electric guitar, two amplifiers and other stereophonic equipment, and a $400 high fidelity phonograph.

Kennedy Backers Urged To Wait

A group of volunteers in the Marin County Kennedy for President Committee has urged California delegates to the Democratic National Convention to remain uncommitted.

The delegation should cast its first ballot for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, "and then see that happens," the 15 "most active" women volunteers agreed at a meeting Thursday, reported Mrs. Jules Becker of Ross.

The meeting was called by Mrs. Troy Lewis of San Rafael, a vice chairman of the county committee.

The group also agreed to circulate petitions asking Congress to pass a strong gun control law, and urged the Marin County Students for Kennedy not to disband, but to work on poverty problems that concerned Kennedy.

Light Agenda Due Sausalito Council

The Sausalito City Council will have a light agenda when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

The agenda includes two planning commission reports on encroachment permits. Don Olsen is seeking a permit for a canopy at 16 El Portal, and Wesley O. Brigham is seeking permit for a fence at 118 Spencer Avenue.

THE PENNEY STORY

"One eye on quality; one on price"

By ROBERTA NASH

More often than not, in a store's newspaper advertising, the emphasis is on the price of merchandise, for this is the news that readers want to know.

But the Penney people want to be sure you understand that this emphasis on price does not represent the thinking within the Penney organization. The thing that makes Penney wheels go round is value, or what you get for that low price.

"We have to keep one eye on quality and the other on price," is the way one of our buyers put it.

MADRONE CANYON CRISIS

Hippies' Shacks Spoiling Nature's Wooded Beauty

By MARY LEYDECKER

Larkspur's Madrone Canyon is only a short crow's flight from Kent Woodlands — and nature has been just as kind to the Madrone area, which is heavily wooded and comparatively wind-free.

But, while Kent Woodlands is the setting for beautiful and expensive homes on large lots, Madrone Canyon is being overrun by hippies living in sagging, dilapidated and even dangerous shacks.

Why has such a lovely area become so run-down?

The answer is that Madrone Canyon was the choice of many early-day summer visitors who built cabins and homes on the steep wooded slopes. "The summer people from San Francisco chose the choice spots in the county," an old-timer has said.

Through the years the cottages have been converted into permanent homes and some have been well cared for. But, according to Ronald H. Glander, Larkspur building and planning superintendent, at least 50 to 75 are in such a sad state they should either be torn down or extensively remodeled.

Some of the houses are rented for a few dollars a month by absentee owners, he said, and others are vacant — or vacant until hippies move in.

A drive up the canyon doesn't reveal the full extent of the horrifying conditions of some of the dwellings because the worst is hidden by overgrowth of brush and trees.

One has to park and then climb either broken or makeshift steps up the sides of the hill to come upon conditions that most Marinites don't know exist in the county.

Sagging, broken and dilapidated are words that best can be used to describe many of the homes. Rotting bedsprings adorn broken porches, rusty cans show where garbage has been dumped and electrical wires run crazily through the trees.

Not only are many of the original cottages in a forlorn state, the inhabitants of the area persist in building ramshackle new structures.

A three-sided cabin has appeared in the last couple of weeks which the builder is constructing partly of logs, partly of various kinds of old lumber with some plastic sheeting thrown in. The hut reminds one of a child's efforts to make something out of almost nothing, but the builder either is taking a break or has given up, because there is no back side to the house.

Nearby, where horses drink water from an old washing machine, is a shack where a kiln is housed. Someone has run a gas line into the kiln, and a low roof looks as if a hot fire in the kiln might set it ablaze.

Threat of fire is always present in Madrone Canyon, and a couple of weeks ago a hippie, who had moved into an empty house, did set it on fire.

He built a fire not in the fireplace — but on the floor in front of it. Glander said he was apparently burning various possessions including some bullets which went off in the fire. Fortunately for his neighbors, the fire was spotted quickly and extinguished before it could spread.

This cottage had once been an attractive summer residence. But today, in addition to the remains of a fire in the middle of the living room, the kitchen also shows signs of its former hippie occupant.

Since there is no connection between the kitchen sink and the drain in the floor, the occupant used a bucket to catch water under the sink. When the bucket overflowed, water drained to a low spot in the floor where holes had been drilled to let the water out.

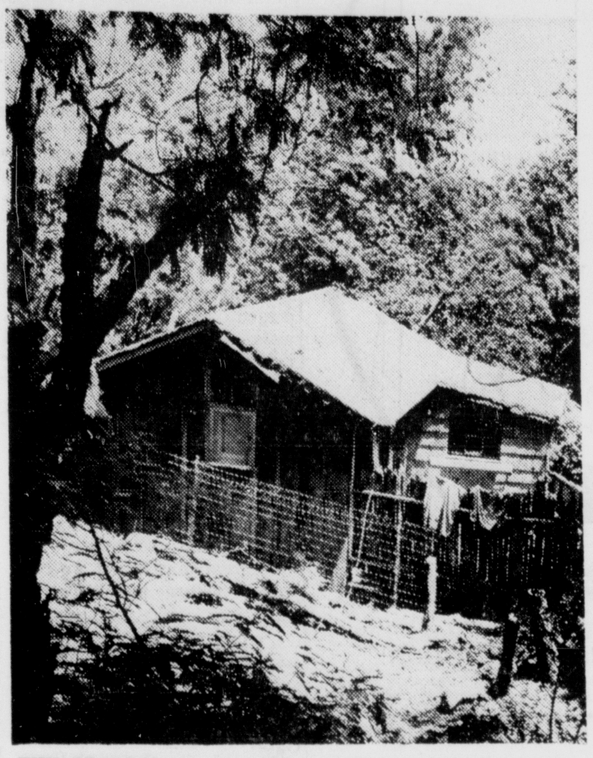
The city fathers in Larkspur are becoming aware that these conditions exist and are declaring war on the property owners who have allowed homes to become so dilapidated.

First step in what is being called an urban redevelopment program (although urban doesn't seem to describe Madrone Canyon), is the hiring of an additional building inspector, which the council authorized last week.

Next will be adoption of a uniform housing code, under which Glander says homeowners could be forced to either bring their homes up to certain standards or demolish them.

Although Glander and the city council recognize that there is sub-standard housing in other parts of Larkspur, the first big push will be to get Madrone Canyon cleaned up.

The city officials are not only concerned about fire and health hazards in the area, but also that the run-down housing is reflected on the tax rolls by low assessed valuation.



THE OZARKS?—No, this is not a shanty in the Ozarks but a sagging house in the Madrone Canyon region of Larkspur, a sub-standard house pointed out on a tour.

FIRE DAMAGE—Glander pokes through the charred remains of a fire which a hippie resident of Madrone Canyon in Larkspupr built—not in the fireplace but in front of it.

HOT FIRE—Larkspur building and planning superintendent Ronald H. Glander inspects a kiln housed in a lean-to- in the Madrone Canyon area of Larkspur. He is seeking to get rid of such unorthodox and unapproved structures.

BUILDING PERMIT?—No planning commission ever took a look at plans for this cabin, which has sprung up in the last few weeks in Larkspur's Madrone Canyon.

Symposium Starts On Today's Youth

Is it absurd for the youth of today to grow up at all?

That was the question posed this morning to more than 200 teachers and educators at the opening of the five-day symposium, "Today's Youth: Growing Up Absurd?", being held this week at Dominican College in San Rafael.

In his opening remarks, moderator Scott Beach, associate professor of creative arts at San Francisco State College, member of "The Committee" and a panelist on the television program, "Oh, My Word," suggested that "the absurdity of it all is that children are forced to grow up in a society that is wrought with such destructive forces" and exists within a communications system "that brings the world into the living room."

"Nowadays people are beginning to yawn at the idea of reaching New York in one hour," he joked. Youth of today, he said, seem to have real insight.

"The age level of mature judgement seems much lower than it was in my generation," the 31-year-old humorist remarked.

Speaking from a podium adorned with the life size poster of Beatle George Harrison, Beach invited the group to "participate in the absurdity of the young." He spoke of the current rock 'n' roll dances in San Francisco's Fillmore Auditorium, saying, "A group that big would have had at least 15 fights when I was that age — I have yet to see violence there."

The symposium, which is a two-unit course in sociology, will feature a morning lecture tomorrow titled, "Is It 'The System' That Stifles the Young?"

The Symposium will also include lectures, workshops and panel discussions exploring the youth of today.

Stakeout Nets Pair Suspected Of Burglaries

Officials at Miller Creek School in Marinwood ended a rash of burglaries Friday morning when they staked out the school and caught two intruders — a pair of brothers, aged 11 and 14, from the Marinwood area.

Sheriff's deputies said school authorities had been plagued by at least seven break-ins this month. They suspected someone had a pass key.

The boys, caught as they entered the building, told deputies they found a door to the school unlocked May 30 and found a set of keys while wandering through the building.

SOFT DRINKS

Since then, they said, they have taken several bottles of soft drinks and $22 from classrooms and stored the loot in a vent inside the building.

"They were afraid to take anything outside the building," deputies said.

The boys were turned over to juvenile authorities, who are expected to ask why there was only $22 stored in the vent when the total amount of cash stolen this month is reportedly $50.

Other burglaries reported by sheriff's deputies today were:

The theft of an angel food cake and a cantaloupe from Roger P. Scharmer's house at 469 Panoramic Highway, Tamalpais Valley, Thursday. The thief pried a window at the house.

The theft of $5 in coins from the home of Josephine Ferrari at 860 College Avenue, Kentfield, Friday. The culprit entered through an unlocked door, deputies said.

TELEVISION TAKEN

Theft of a $700 television set, a radio, four rifles and $7 in cash from the home of Janice Marie Bell at 421 Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley, Friday. The thieves forced open her rear door, she said.

Today is Monday, June 17, the 169th day of 1968 with 197 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning star is Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1775 some 3,500 British soldiers attacked 1,000 American patriots on Bunker Hill near Boston. The British lost more than 1,000 men—the Americans 441.

In 1928 Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly across the Atlantic ocean. The plane was piloted by Wilmer Stultz.

In 1953 residents of the Russian-occupied zone of Berlin staged mass anti-Communist riots protesting working and living conditions. The uprising was quickly smashed.

In 1967 Red China said it had exploded a hydrogen bomb.

A thought for the day: British poet Sir John Suckling once said, "Women are the baggage of life; they are troublesome and hinder us in the great march, yet we cannot be without them."

Road To Success Is Paved With Rocks And Some Are Very Costly

The road to success is paved with rocks, which your competitors will pick up and heave at you. A rock of this kind stopped the six bridge experts who call themselves the Dallas Aces in the recent regional tournament in Los Angeles.

CLUB OPENING

Dallas Ace Bobby Wolff opened the three of clubs when today's hand was played in the first round of the Los Angeles Knockout Team Championship. Ira Corn won with the ace of clubs and returned the deuce of clubs to the king.

Wolff was at the crossroads. Did South hold two five-card major suits or did he have a singleton? Since the bidding suggested that South had real heart length, Wolff returned a low trump at the third trick.

This defense would be correct if South had East's queen of hearts and East had South's king of diamonds. Except against a trump switch, South would ruff three black cards in dummy and would take his own five trumps and the two side aces.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Wolff's switch to trumps at the third trick gave a golden opportunity to Joe Titone, young Duarte, Calif., expert. Titone captured the queen of hearts with the king, cashed the king of diamonds, and then led a low heart toward dummy. West played low, and declarer daringly tried a finesse with dummy's nine of hearts.

When this finesse worked, South ruffed a diamond and led a trump to dummy's ace. This drew the rest of the trumps, and dummy's diamonds were good. Titone scored 650 points for making four hearts with an overtrick.

OTHER TABLE

At the other table of the match the Dallas pair who held the North-South cards stopped at three diamonds, a sensible contract which cost them enough international match points to lose the match.

Young Tad Lincoln once invited a group of street urchins into the White House to share his Christmas dinner. The cook tried to shoo them away, but Tad appealed to his father, who said they could stay.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, you bid two diamonds, and partner bids two hearts.

You hold:
♥ A 9 2
♦ A J 9 7 6 3 2
♣ Q 9

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three diamonds.

If partner has five or more hearts as well as length in spades, he will go on to three hearts. If partner has only four hearts, you will be better off in diamonds than in hearts.

Youths Start Bureau To Aid Children

Three 1968 graduates of Redwood High School have formed a students' volunteer bureau to help handicapped and underpriviliged children.

Robert Roth of Greenbrae, one of the organizers, said 50 high school students held the first meeting of the bureau Thursday. He said the students formed one group which wanted to help handicapped children and one which wished to help underprivileged youngsters.

Roth said each group would invite members of service organizations to describe what actions the students could take.

"There is so much potential in youth," Roth said. "This is an opportunity for us to prove ourselves."

Roth said the idea for the bureau grew out of the ideals of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The other organizers of the bureau are Gregory Duncan of Ross and Haig Mackey of Belvedere.

Roth recently donated a $100 scholarship he received to handicapped children at Marindale School. He asked high school students wishing to join the volunteer bureau to telephone at his home at 14 Via Cheparro, Greenbrae.

Hospital Board Due Land Report

The Marin Hospital District board will hear a report from its land committee on possibilities of acquiring land for parking across Bon Air Road from the Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco when the board meets at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Blue Room of Marin General Hospital.

The board will first meet for dinner at the hospital at 6 p.m.

The land committee is composed of board members Irving Chapman and Thomas K. Procter.

The board will also discuss financing of the first phase of its master plan for expansion of Marin General. The first phase, designed to add about 100 beds to the hospital to make a total of 350, and to expand laboratory, X-ray and other service facilities, will cost an estimated $9 million.

Variances Sought

Tiburon Board of Adjustments will consider five requests for setback variances when it meets at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Insensitivity To Pain Also Has Its Health Drawbacks

VAN DELLEN

Some people never feel pain and a few of them also lack the sense of taste or smell. The condition is present from birth. They may be ticklish, but itching does not occur.

America's pioneer neurologist, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, wrote about a friend who never experienced pain in his life.

ON ONE OCCASION, Mitchell's friend smashed his finger during a political wrangle and bit off the crushed end. An ulcer on the man's toe that would have prevented most of us from walking, didn't bother him a bit. Cataracts were removed from both eyes without an anesthetic.

Edward H. Gibson, the "human pincushion," had an unusual vaudeville act in which he invited the audience to stick pins into any part of his body, except the abdomen and groin.

He offered $5,000 to any physician who could detect signs of distress.

One of his acts, however, backfired. Gibson prepared a wooden cross on the stage with four gold spikes ready for his crucifixion. The experiment was not completed, because after the assistant had hammered the first spike through the palm of one hand, several members of the audience collapsed. That disturbance broke up the show.

INDIFFERENCE to pain is not always total. Headache or other discomfort may be felt by a few.

This abnormality should not be confused with insensitivity to pain occuring in the mentally retarded, hysterical, or psychotic. During hypnosis an indifference to many sensations may be induced.

Lack of pain perception is hazardous, because the person never knows when he steps on a nail or sustains a serious burn. In this respect, pain is an asset, serving as a warning of impending danger.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PEOPLE DIFFER

A reader writes: My husband drinks like a fish, eats like a horse, and is built like Superman. He also takes tranquilizers and his blood pressure and heart are perfect. How does he do it? He has done this for 25 years. My eating habits are moderate and I don't drink, yet I'm a nervous wreck. Tell me why I have these problems and he had none. I though booze kills. If I could only drink the stuff, my health would probably improve.

REPLY

This serves to emphasize an oft-repeated axiom: "People are different." Do not imitate him but be less critical and you may feel better.

HOT WATER FOR CRAMPS

A reader writes: Will soaking the feet in hot water relieve cramping along the entire lower extremities — toes, feet, leg, and thigh? These attacks come on at night.

REPLY

Yes, but the cramp may be gone by the time you get into the shower or tub. If the cause of these spasms cannot be found and eliminated, a drug such as quinidine or kneading the leg will relax the spasm.

WHY PUPILS DILATED

E. E. writes: Why does the doctor dilate the pupils when testing the eyes?

REPLY

The ophthalmologist obtains a better test of vision in this way. When the pupils are dilated with drops, the person cannot adjust to or compensate for refractive errors. In other words, the eyes are relaxed rather than under stress.

AFTER-DINNER TREAT

J. K. R. writes: What do you think of serving cake and coffee 20 to 30 minutes after a heavy meal?

REPLY

This is as good a time as any to have a coffee klatsch.

CURE HAMMER TOE

A reader writes: The doctor tells me I should have my hammer toe corrected. Is surgery the only solution?

REPLY

Yes, because the joint is dislocated and thickened to such an extent that it cannot be straightened without removing part of it.

BODY ODOR

R. S. writes: Is there a disease that causes body odor.

REPLY

Any condition that is associated with profuse perspiration may lead to body odor. Many old-timers could diagnose typhoid fever the moment they entered the house. Cancer also has a characteristic odor.

NO BABY AFTER

A reader writes: A young couple have been married for 3 years and conception has not occurred. How long should they wait before consulting a doctor?

REPLY

Now is the time. Two years is a reasonable period, but some couples wait longer and now and then are rewarded.

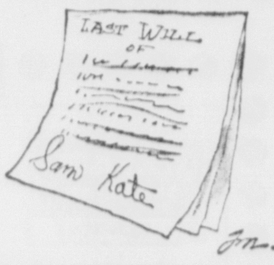
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Mutual Will And Benefits



Sam and Kate agreed to will their property to their two children. This was part of an agreement ending their marriage. But later Kate made a will leaving her estate to a sister. Sam made one naming his new wife.

When Sam died, the children brought suit to make their stepmother give them the estate. The court ruled that the stepmother could keep the estate Both the mother and father could change the settlement contract during their lifetime. Since the mother breached her agreement, the father could also.

Contracts attempting to restrict the way people can make their wills are not easy to enforce. This is the basic policy: Anyone is free to dispose of his property at death, and change his will any time before his death.

Had Kate lived up to her promise, it is unlikely that Sam would have been bound.

Occasionally both husband and wife make a single will. This is a "mutual will." It is both contract and will. The two parties agree in a single document that their property is to go a particular way — often to the surviving spouse and then to the children. This binds both.

By consent, either can revoke the "mutual will," just as either can change his own will. But, after the death of one spouse, and if the survivor enjoys the benefits of the will, he cannot back out of his part of the agreement.

All agreements to make a will must be in writing. Oral promises to do so are not enforceable.

To assure that intentions are carried out, a person can set up a trust giving property to the trustee right away. The trustee may be directed to let a widow use the property for her l

DRAMA REVIEW

ACT Gives 'Streetcar' Humanity

By GARY TISCHLER

SAN FRANCISCO — There is something quite spooky about watching the American Conservatory Theater's production of Tennessee William's "A Streetcar Named Desire", at the Geary Theater.

The play, after all, has a built-in, almost legendary reputation with the tales of Marlon Brando's torn-t-shirt and the sudden prominence of method acting, a reputation that has never been challenged by attempts at revival. To unearth it now seemed almost sacrilegious.

FULL CIRCLE

Director Robert Goldsby and his actors have very little to be slighted on. ACT's production has a kind of suction power that is achingly moving.

The emphasis has come full circle, back to the dream-drenched Blanche DuBois. Stanley Kowalski, at least as portrayed by Ray Reinhardt, seems to have been imbedded with a kind of raw, single-minded fury of noise and breakage. The pathos is still there in the lines, as in his continued reference to those aquaintances of his, experts in every field, but for the most part Reinhardt's Kowalski speaks in a high-powered bluster and rage, the antithesis of moths and lace and meandering dreams. Kowalski has become solid and as a result his one-sided battle with the dream-haunted world of Blanche has become sharply etched and terryifying.

The play, then, belongs to De Ann Mears, who gives a performance that is all the more remarkable because you almost instinctively rebel against it at first. She is playing, after all, the part of a woman playing a part, with every gesture and every pitch drawn out. But here we have a Blanche, voice breaking like beautiful glass, fluttering in a cloud of mannerisms, most moving when she is most unreal. She seemed, to me, most effective, not in her losing jousts with Koswalski, but in her scenes with her stern suitor Mitch.

The celebrated rape is a stunner, not so much for what is said or shown (very little) but for its brutal, muffling swiftness, ending on a suddenly shocking blackout.

Goldsby in his direction sometimes seems to be running a hair-thin risk of having things slip into nothing more than a noisy domestic spat involving an intruding in-law. But it is a risk that gives the play humor and humanity.

The supporting cast is excellent, especially young Dana Larsen as Kowalski's torn wife Stella and a pent-up John Schuck as Mitch.

You might quibble with the device of running toy-box music whenever Blanche recalls her lost, dead first love, but it is a device that is effective and heightens Miss Mears' performance, not that she needs help.

The muted sets of Walter Watson provide a gray world atmosphere of hanging branches and two rooms that seem to be forever full of discarded clothes and dishes and lives.

"Streetcar" will be running in repertoire until Aug. 8 at the Geary Theater, and will be presented tomorrow and Thursday; June 26, 29, and 30; July 2, 3, 11, 20, 23 and 28 and Aug. 1, 7 and 8.

WELCOMES THE GUEST

The late Spencer Tracy welcomes Sidney Poitier to his San Francisco home as Katharine Houghton looks on. It is a scene from, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," currently at the Northgate Theater in Terra Linda. The picture also stars Katharine Hepburn, who won the Academy Award for the best actress of the year for her role.

MUSIC REVIEW

Marin's Del Tredici Conducts Own Composition With Verve

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO—Contemporary music may be gaining in general appeal, as evidenced by the good-sized audience Saturday night for the final program at the Opera House in the San Francisco Symphony's three-concert "Musica Viva—American Festival," especially when compared with that at the first series three years ago.

But the warmest reception among the seven composers represented was for the two oldest—Charles Ives and Roy Harris. This must be partly credited to familiarity, for the compositions of the two youngest—Marin's David Del Tredici, 31, and Edward Miller, 38, were, respectively "The Last Gospel" in a world premiere and "Orchestral Changes," a West Coast premiere.

Furthermore, Aaron Copland, who co-ordinated the series and conducted three of the numbers, was represented by the West Coast premiere of his "Inscape."

Naturally of major interest to us was Del Tredici's composition, which he conducted himself with great intensity and verve.

Though it employed the orchestra, the 70-voice San Jose State College A Cappella Choir and a concertante group of two saxaphones and two emplified guitars and soprano Miriam Abramowitsch, it proved largely a vocal tour de force.

Although inspired by the words of the St. John Gospel, there was no warmth of reilgious feeling. The words were repetitions of syllables bearing little relation to their sequential meaning and in pungent syncopated rhythms so that understanding them had no significance.

The whole work was a highly intellectualized exercise of stark impact whose hard and cold effect was increased by the twang of the guitars. Miss Ambramowitsch colored her vocal quality to match except in some beautiful long sustained single tones echoed by the chorus, which was impressive in its performance of the difficult writing.

Del Tredicci is obviously a master craftsman in avant-garde techniques. There was no evidence of his interest in rock 'n' roll except the instrumentation of the concertante group.

Thoroughly enjoyable were Ives's masterpiece "Decoration Day," and "Fourth of July," both conducted by the enormously talented young Hungarian director Peter Eros.

Very colorful with its exciting sonorities in strings and brass and varying moods was Harris's popular Third Symphony which brought a standing ovation for the composer who was present to celebrate 70th birthday. In this work there was some of the best passages we have heard from the symphony's low strings.

There was no near-pop mainstream music in Copland's "Inscape" conducted by Eros. In this he returned to his concern with the difficult 12-tone idiom. Its musical ideas had some kind of esoteric significance which were not apparent to us.

Henry Cowell's "Synchrony" was very interesting in its unusual direct use of the piano, strings and tone clusters. Like Ives's pieces, it was an example of chaotic music that nevertheless makes sense.

Miller's "Orchestral Changes" seemed rather mechanical manipulation of musical ideas and instrumental colors.

Crash Injuries Minor To Pair

A Fairfax mother and her son were injured yesterday afternoon in a rear-end collision in San Anselmo.

Police said a car driven by Vilia R. Dugan, 45, of 27 Meadow Way, Fairfax, was struck from the rear by a car driven by Mortimer Cook, 24, of 133 Live Oak Avenue, Fairfax, on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 2:15 p.m. Cook was cited for following too closely.

Mrs. Dugan and her 7-year-old son, Jeffery C. Dugan, were to see their family doctor.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Documentaries Plus New Series Slated

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The next 10 days will bring televiewers a windfall of provocative documentaries, new entertainment series and exceptional reruns.

Tomorrow, for instnace, there is "CBS Reports: The Business of Religion." This hour is described as "an investigation of America's churches, their income and property, and the growing controversy over whether their holdings should be subject to disclosure and some form of taxation."

Also tomorrow, there is a rerun of the Peter Sellers-David Niven comedy film, "The Pink Panther," on NBC-TV.

Wednesday brings "Mr. 100,000 volts," a half-hour ABC-TV variety special headlining French singer Gilbert Becaud, with Brazil's Joao Gilberto and other international entertainers.

The same night, ABC-TV offers a rerun of a very good two-hour adaptation of the suspense thriller, "Dial M For Murder," with Laurence Harvey, Diane Cilento and Hugh O'Brian.

On Thursday, a summer series called "Dean Martin Presents the Golddiggers," which replaces Martin's regular show for several months and revolves around music and events of the 1930s, arrives on NBC-TV. It is a variety outing, and features Frank Sinatra Jr., Joey Heatherton, Paul Lynde and Barbara Heller, but not Martin, despite the title.

On Friday, NBC-TV offers an hour documentary called "The New American Catholic," and it will examine "new trends and movements coursing through the Catholic Church regarding authority, celibacy and changing forms of worship."

The same night, there is a CBS-TV rerun of the outstanding comedy-suspense movie about a daring jewel theft, "Topkapi," with Melina Mercouri, Peter Ustinov and Maximilian Schell.

And the same morning, NBC-TV's "Today" series devotes its two hours to examining student revolt on college campuses.

On Sunday, a summer replacement series for CBS-TV's Smothers Brothers show has its debut, starring comedian Pat Paulsen and singer Glen Campbell. Premiere guests are Nancy Sinatra and the Smothers Brothers.

And Sunday also brings an acceptable rerun of a two-hour adaptation of the narcotics-themed play, "A Hatful of Rain," with Peter Falk, Michael Parks, Sandy Dennis, Herschel Bernardi and Don Stroud in the ABC-TV version.

Next Monday—June 24—and also on June 25 and 26, CBS-TV will present three one-hour documentaries in prime time under the overall title, "The Cities," with the programs examining problems of "America's Blighted Urban Nerve Centers."

In addition on June 25, ABC-TV will rerun "The Savage World of the Coral Jungle," an hour from its notable series of specials about oceanographer Jacques Cousteau.

And on June 27, ABC-TV begins its six-part series about the race problem in the United States, "Time For Americans."

Vending Machine Thwarts Burglars

Burglars hauled a cigarette machine out of a cCorte Madera auto agency Friday, then took it back when all attempts to force it open failed.

Corte Madera police said the burglars were also unsuccessful in their attempts to break into soft drink and coffee machines in the office of Doug Dicker Chrysler-Plymouth on Casa Buena Drive.

Officers said the cigarette machine was hauled out a rear door, but they did not know how far it was taken.

Report Claims 'Very Little Actual Hunger'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Agriculture Committee says there is "widespread malnutrition" in the United States but "very little actual hunger."

The committee's chairman, Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., labelled a private study which claimed that millions are suffering from hunger as "inaccurate and misleading if not blatantly false."

SOUTHEAST SURVEY

Poage released the results Sunday of a study his committee made in 256 counties, mostly in the Southeast, that were designated "hunger counties" in the private study, spearheaded by union leader Walter Reuther.

Poage's survey, based on replies from 181 of the counties, drew a distinction between hunger and malnutrition.

The findings, Poage said, "lead to the unmistakable conclusion that there is very little actual hunger in the United States, but widespread malnutrition caused largely by ignorance as to what constitutes a balanced diet."

REUTHER REPORT

The Reuther report said "hunger and malnutrition exist in this country, affecting millions of our fellow Americans and increasing in severity and extent from year to year."

Most but not all of the letters received by Poage from local health officials backed his conclusions.

Several letters said poor people buy liquor instead of food. Others said children of unwed mothers are improperly cared for by teen-age sisters who have no knowledge of proper diets.

One, from Dr. Edward F. Goldsmith, a Brewton, Ala., health officer for three counties, said he has not seen nor heard of starvation. "With a little bit of ingenuity one can raise all their vegetables in 60 square feet in their front or back yard. Good fish are in our local streams for the taking."

EDUCATION PROBLEM

Dr. Wayne Yaeger, a district public health director from Valdosta, Ga., said, however, "borderline starvation," that he has seen cases of diseases and hunger.

"You are correct in stating that many Americans suffer from an improper diet and it is a problem of education and of personal decisions," Yaeger wrote Poage.

"The trouble is that it is most difficult to educate a poorly motivated, half-starved, undernourished citizen."

Dartmouth Valedictorian Urges No Vietnam Fighting

HANOVER, N.H. (UPI)—The Dartmouth College valedictorian yesterday urged his classmates to refuse to fight in Vietnam and they rose to cheer him when he thanked God the United States is losing it.

"I urge you to refuse to fight in Vietnam when that call comes to you," said James W. Newton of Glendale, Ariz.

"It is my conclusion that the Vietnam war is a colossal stupidity, a vast international atrocity and an expensive lesson in the futility of modern aggressive imperialism, for, thank God, we are losing that war," he said.

At this, most of his classmates rose in a standing ovation but cries of "shame!" and "traitor!" came from parents and alumni.

"I pray that you will not sacrifice your minds and your bodies in the service of this ignoble cause," Newton said.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., the commencement speaker, departed from his text several times to characterize his remarks as a reply to Newton. Javits said their approaches were "totally different" though they agreed that divisiveness was the nation's biggest problem."

The senator said student protests had been the "critical catalytic fact" that resulted in a change in U.S. policy in Vietnam. He said the effectiveness, of the protests "stemmed from persuasion by argument and not violence."

Youngsters Find Bazooka Shell

A bazooka shell was found by youngsters cleaning out the carport of a Bel Aire man's home, sheriff officers reported Saturday.

The homeowner, Paul C. Norman of 272 Karen Way, told officers the youngsters had found the shell Thursday afternoon and had thrown it in a heap in his yard.

Norman said he did not know where it came from or how long it had been there.

The shell was taken to the sheriff's office in San Rafael and was to be turned over to a bomb disposal unit from the Presidio of San Francisco.

Trevino Is Happy Champion

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Beaten Bert Yancey said it all when he shook hands with unbelievable Lee Trevino, the new U.S. Open champion, on the 18th green.

"You played beautifully," said Yancey to the impish, 28-year-old El Paso, Tex., pro who had just holed his final putt to win by four strokes and equal the U.S. Open record with a 275 total.

Those were the only words the utterly frustrated Yancey said to the pudgy, irrepressible, little Texas-born Mexican all day yesterday and they certainly applied after Trevino fired his final round 36-33—69 over Oak Hills Country Club's 6,962-yard, par-70 acreage to become the first golfer in Open history ever to shoot four sub-par rounds.

Jack Nicklaus, whose one-year-old Open scoring record Trevino tied, and who carded a fourth-round 67 to steal second place with his 279 total, agreed with Yancey.

"Fantastic," declared Nicklaus, referring to Trevino's showing. "The way he played, there was no possible way to catch him."

Trevino, who had to borrow $400 to play in last year's open at Springfield, N.J., where he finished fifth, had never won a regular tournament before this one. But he made off with this one exactly the way he had planned.

"All I wanted to do was shoot a 70," Trevino explained. "I felt if I could shoot par, I'd be okay. I made up my mind to try to par the front nine and then catch him (Yancey) on the back nine if I could."

Playing head-to-head with Yancey, who had led after all three rounds and who still had a one-shot advantage going into the last one, Trevino made the whole thing go the way he planned.

Except for a momentary stumble on the first hole where he took his only bogey of the day, and where Yancey also took the first of his eight bogeys, Trevino never made a serious mistake.

He went in front to stay on the ninth hole, which he parred and Yancey bogeyed, then wrapped it all up with a pair of eye-popping birdie putts of 35 feet and 20 feet on the 11th and 12th.

Those two putts ballooned Trevino's margin to four strokes and the dejected Yancey looked like the last rose of summer when he three-putted from 13 feet on the 13th hole to go five strokes down.

"I didn't ever think I had Bert beaten," Trevino said gallantly after it was all over, "but when he three-putted the 13th I knew all I had to do was par in from there."

That's precisely what he did to earn the $30,000 first prize. Trevino's wife, Claudia, who watches the purse-strings carefully, will give Lee $300 of that bonanza—only if he promises not to spend it all in the same place.

For Nicklaus, who started the day seven shots behind Yancey and passed him on the 16th hole, the $15,000 he got for second place was pretty much an old story.

But, the $10,000 Yancey got for his 281 total after his final round 76 was like blood money. He led by five strokes at one point in the third round and it looked as if no one could catch him.

But Trevino did, with two birdies and 16 pars. The new champ said he was even helped by an early morning rain because "I'm a good mudder and I learned to play in the rain back in El Paso."

Bobby Nichols, the good-looking former PGA champ, shot the same fourth-round 69 that Trevino did and it brought him fourth place with a 282 total that was good for $7,500.

Steve Spray, the young Indianola, Iowa, slugger, electrified everybody with a flurry of eight birdies for a 65 that was the best round of the event and

Terra Linda Bill Lee Helps USC Win Baseball Crown

Terra Lindan Bill Lee and his cliff-hanging, brilliant USC teammates took another Perils of Pauline ball game Saturday, nipping Southern Illinois, 4-3, to dance undefeated through the NCAA baseball world series and capture the Trojans' fifth tournament title.

Lee and power-hitting first baseman Bill Seinsoth were the only Trojans named to the all-tournament team.

By winning, the Trojans became only the sixth team to go through the double elimination tournament in unbeaten fashion.

They finished the season with a 50-14 won-lost mark, taking 30 out of their last 34. The 50 is a school record and the .781 percentage is fifth best in USC history.

Lee, who won a 5-3 opener over Brigham Young, started this one but needed expert help from sophomore Brent Strom in the eighth inning when the Salukis, leading 3-2, had the bases loaded with two outs and three balls on the batter. He got the out and then gained his second relief victory.

USC coach Rod Devedaux bubbled over the championship win.

"I've never seen anything like it the way they kept coming back," he said. "Two out and two strikes in the last of the ninth here—the same thing in the district championship game, and three other teams had us down here, but these guys won 'em all."

Seinsoth sparked the attack with a two-run homer and hit .389 in the tourney. He was named the tourney's most outstanding player.

Flurry Of Mini-Swaps As Deadline Comes

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major league teams, failing to come up with any major deals, moved around a number of second-line players before the trading deadline.

Rumored efforts by Pittsburgh to deal Maury Wills and by the New York Yankees to get a hitter for one of their front-line pitchers failed to develop.

The last trade was made only minutes before last Saturday's midnight deadline and sent Houston's regular center fielder, Ron Davis, to the St. Louis Cardinals for reserve outfielder Dick Simpson and rookie reliever Hal Gilson.

Davis, 26, the only regular traded on the last day, was hitting .212 for the Astros after batting .256 last season. Simpson was hitting .232 in 26 games, and Gilson had a 0-2 record and a 4.67 earned run average in 13 games.

Earlier in the day, Baltimore traded for outfield protection in case Paul Blair is inducted into the Army. The Orioles got Fred Valentine, 33, hitting .240 in 36 games, from Washington in exchange for disappointing right-handed pitcher Bruce Howard, 25, who has an 0-2 record and a 3.77 era in 31 innings. The Orioles obtained Howard only last winter from the Chicago White Sox.

Cleveland and California traded outfielders, the Indians sending Vic Davalillo, 26, and his .239 average to the Angels for Jimmie Hall, 30, hitting .210.

The Yankees sent Jim Bouton, a former 21-game winner and World Series hero, to the 1969 expansion Seattle club, and he was immedicately assigned to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League for the remainder of the season.

The Yankees also sold one-time top reliever John Wyatt, 33, to Detroit. Wyatt came to the Yankees this spring from Boston.

14-Year-Old Boy Captures San Rafael Open Golf Title

They won't have to worry about keeping the winner of the San Rafael Open Golf Tournament abusing his prize.

Fourteen-year-old Don Edwards was the handicap winner and recipient of a week-end's paid vacation in Las Vegas in the San Rafael Jaycee-sponsored tourney at San Geronimo yesterday.

Young Edwards came up with a 67 score off a 30 handicap to take top prize.

George Greenwood of Indian Valley Golf Club shot a two-under par 70 to take low gross honors. Low net winner was Roger Milner with a 61.

Dave Cardy won the Calloway Flight with a 77-6-71 while Ben Lujan took the championship flight with a 71-6-65. Val Sabuco was tops in the hole-in-one contest, coming up within 4-9½ of the hole. A hole in one would have won a new Chevrolet.

Mrs. McDannold Tops In Low Putt Contest

Mrs. R. S. McDannold led the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club's low putt contest Friday with a 28.

She was followed by Mesdames William Sarm, 29, H. D. McGlynn at 30 and D. F. Thoney at 32.

Athletics Win Pair; Giants Split

A's Find New Formula In Sweep Over Orioles

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland A's manager Bob Kennedy is hurting for righthanded pitching but it's the other teams that are yelling ouch.

Kennedy called on perfect-game pitcher Jim Hunter to preserve a four-hit, 6-4 win for Lew Krausse (3-7) in the second game of a doubleheader with Baltimore. Oakland had won the opener 4-2 on pinchhitter Mike Hershberger's first homer of the season, a two-run blast that broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning.

ODOM TONIGHT

Righthander Gene Brabender (4-2) tries tonight to shake the Orioles out of a slump in which they have lost 7 of their last 10 games. He will be opposed by John Odom (6-4).

"I told Jim (Hunter) to skip pitching batting practice today because I was kind of short on righthanders and figured I might use him briefly during the doubleheader," said Kennedy. "It turned out he saved a game."

Hunter, who is due to start Wednesday night against the Orioles, relieved Krausse after he walked Fred Valentine to open the eighth. Next up was Frank Robinson who had touched Krausse for a three-run blast in the sixth.

DOUBLE PLAYS

Hunter got Robinson to hit into a double play. Then Hunter, who hurled a perfect game May 8 against Minnesota, retired the three batters he faced in the ninth.

Sal Bando drove in three runs for Oakland in the second game with a double and two singles.

Chuck Dobson allowed five hits, including solo homers to Curt Blefary and Valentine, in going the distance in the opener to post a five-hitter and up his record to 4-6. Hershberger, a .194 hitter, homered after Danny Cater's pinch double sent home Reggie Jackson with the tying run.

Kennedy said he used Hunter because righthanded relievers Diego Segui and Ed Sprague worked "a lot" in the Friday and Saturday losses to the New York Yankees. Righthander Jim Nash is doing Army reserve duty and another righty, Jack Aker, is still in Cleveland being treated for a back injury.

Braves Sweep Three

Sock it to 'em, sock it to 'em Braves!

The Litchfield Braves obliged this weekend, socking it to the Santa Rosa Rosebuds no less than three times to remain in the Western Baseball Association driver's seat.

The Braves whacked the Rosebuds Saturday in Santa Rosa, 8-4, then took a doubleheader, 5-4 and 10-1 in subhuman 100-degree temperature.

The clean sweep gave Litchfield, a 10-2 WBA record, a mark that now has a nine-game win streak.

Ron Cole was the winner Saturday while Jerry Robison with a double and triple and John Burnett and Art Blunt with two singles each paced an 11-hit attack.

Former Marin Catholic star Ben Burch took the win in the tight one yesterday, getting superb relief from Greg Tellis while Blunt's three-run homer in the second inning was the big blow for the Braves.

The nightcap was a laugh-in as Bill Clark struck out nine enroute to the victory. John Burnett exploded for three doubles in another 10-hit spree by the Braves.

Sohner Splits Doubleheader

Morey Swarm tossed a three-hit shutout in the second game Saturday night to give Sohner Tree Service of San Anselmo a split in a Golden Gate Softball League doubleheader with Concord.

Sohner lost the opener, 3-0, but banged out 11 hits for a 8-0 triumph in the nightcap. The Treemen thus finished third in the team GG League.

Milt Hain with a homer and two singles and Ron McCamish with a home run and triple paced the Sohner offense. Swarm scored a personal high for the year with 13 strikeouts.

S.F. Gets Day Of Rest Before Playing In Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Giants took today off and nobody needed the rest more than their pitchers.

Gaylord Perry, 6-3, and Mike McCormick, 5-8, are the probable starters tomorrow in a twinight doubleheader at Philadelphia.

The New York Mets battered the Giants' pitchers for 37 hits in four games but some heavy hitting by the Giants gained a series split.

STILL WINS

Juan Marichal, ace of the Giants' mound staff, gave up 16 hits Saturday but still won 9-5.

Ray Sadecki checked the Mets 4-1 on five hits in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader and got home run support from Willie Mays and Jack Hiatt.

The Mets crossed up Giants' Manager Herman Franks' pitching strategy in the first inning of the second game and held on for a 3-1 win.

Lefty reliever Bill Henry, making his first start, walked a batter and got the second hitter to pop out, then was lifted so right-hander Bob Bolin could pitch to right-handed Cleon Jones.

WILD PITCHES

Jones double in a run and scored on two wild pitches. Art Shamsky's solo homer produced the Mets' third run in the fifth.

Danny Frisella, making his first start, blanked the Giants on three hits until he was relieved by Al Jackson in the sixth. Jackson gave up a run in the ninth.

In the first game Sadecki and Dick Selma were locked in a scoreless duel until the sixth when Mays led off with his 12th homer.

Ron Hunt's single, a sacrifice and Jesus Alou's single brought in a run in the seventh. In the eighth, Mays singled, took third when Selma threw wild trying to pick him off, and scored on an infield out. Jack Hiatt hit his second homer of the season in the ninth.

Sadecki, 7-8, allowed just three hits until Jones hit a homer in the ninth. It was Sadecki's first win after five straight losses.

Novato Nine Retains Its Undefeated Mark

Novato's unbeaten American Legion baseball team won a tight duel from Napa Saturday night, 3-1, then overpowered Vallejo Post 550 twice yesterday to bring its American Legion mark to 5-0 and its season record to 6-0.

Russ Dillon hurled a three-hitter, striking out 11 and allowing one unearned run in Saturday's game.

A seven-run third-inning outburst in the opener yesterday led the way to a 12-5 victory and Mike Timmel hurled his second straight shutout in the nightcap for a 13-0 runaway.

The runs in the opener were the first earned runs given up by Novato hurling. Glenn Holsclaw and Steve McNally shared pitching duty in that one, while Tommy Thomas went four-for-four at the plate.

Timmel hurled a four-hit, nine strikeout gem in the nightcap, walking none. Thomas pushed his doubleheader total to six for seven with two hits.

Beardall Again Wins Novato Run

In repeat of last year's performance, Daryl Beardall won first place in the Novato Ridge Run Saturday, part of the Western Weekend celebration.

Although he was off his record 38/04.2 time of last year, Beardall's easy victory placed him 33.4 seconds ahead of his nearest competitor. The 31 year railroad telegrapher from Santa Rosa turned in a 38:36.6 for the 6.87 mile course.

Jim Sullivan, a 24 year old student-teacher from Saratoga, found it hard to keep Beardall's pace, but managed to turn in a 39:10 time, good enough for second place.

Phil Darneall of Berkeley was third, 39:35. The 24 year old Merritt College student was 59.1 seconds behind Beardall.

Fourth place went to Doug Butts of the winning Marin Athletic Club. Butts finished the marathon in 40:40. Herb Potter

'Wahoo Sam' Crawford Dies At 88

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Samuel E. "Wahoo Sam" Crawford, who was the oldest living member of baseball's Hall of Fame. He died Saturday at the age of 88.

Crawford, who was used mainly as an outfielder, spent 19 years in the major leagues—his first four with Cincinnati in the National League and other 15 with Detroit in the American League.

His death came at the Hollywood Community Hospital. He suffered a stroke May 26.

Crawford's funeral services at the Hollywood Presbyterian Church and interment will be private. The place of his interment was not disclosed.

Nicknamed "Wahoo Sam" because he was born at Wahoo, Neb., Crawford began his major league career at Cincinnati in 1900 at the age of 20. He was traded to Detroit in 1903 where he played through 1917. He concluded his 24-year baseball career with four seasons with Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Crawford's major league batting average was .309—.316 in the National League and .308 in the American League. He played in 2,505 games and collected 2,964 hits in 9,579 trips to the plate, hitting 95 home runs.

END OF THE ROAD—Dave Patrick of Villanova cracks the tape at the end of the 1,500-meter race as he turned back Dave Wilborn (378) of Oregon and Brian Kivlan (245) of Manhattan in a record time of 3:40.4 during the finals of the NCAA Track and Field Championships at Berkeley's Edwards Stadium Saturday. Narrow Victory For USC

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Washington State won the battle at the NCAA Track and Field Championships but Southern California won the war.

The Cougars, outsiders in the fight for the collegiate title while the Trojans were the big favorites, almost upset the applecart at Edwards Stadium during the past weekend before bowing to superior numbers, 58-57.

Washington State concentrated its power on the more herculean events, and won them all. The Trojans, a more balanced club, spread their talent thin and while upset in a couple of events, managed to grab the necessary points to win the team title.

Little Gerry Lindgren, the smallest man on the field but the one with the biggest heart and stamina, took both the 5,000 and 10,000 meter races and thereby became a leading candidate for the gold medal in both events at the Mexico City Olympic Games this fall.

Gerry, the mighty 5-6, 125-pound mite, ran bigger and stronger opponents into the ground as he won the 10,000 meter crown in 29:41.0, excellent time considering he set his own pace and finished more than 100 yards ahead of his nearest rival. That was on Thursday's opening program.

He came back on Saturday's windup show to also take the 5,000, spurting past Steve Stageberg of Georgetown and Kerry Pearce of Australia. Gerry's time of 14:12.3 set a meet record and was the fifth NCAA standard shattered during the three days of competition.

Washington State took its other titles in the discus and javelin. John Van Reenen of South Africa took the discus with a heave of 194-10 while Carl O'Donnell won the javelin with a throw of 258-11.

USC, meanwhile, managed only three titles and one of them was a team effort.

Earl McCullouch, the world's top hurdler, won the 110-highs on Friday in the meet record equalling time of 13.4 seconds and Lennox Miller, a transplant from Jamaica, followed by taking the 100 meters dash in 10.1 seconds, which also equalled the meet record.

McCullouch and Miller then teamed with Fred Kuller and O. J. Simpson on Saturday to win the 440-meter relay in 39.5.

However, with Bob Seagren finishing second in the pole vault, Miller second in the 200 meters, Tim Barrett third in the triple jump and Geoff Vanderstock third in the 400 intermediate hurdles, the Trojans had the points to win the team title for the second straight time, fourth in the last six years and 25th overall.

The meet, by a long shot, wasn't strictly a WSU-USC show. There were any number of notable performances as the first six Americans in each event won berths for the June 29-30 Olympic trials at Los Angeles.

Dick Fosbury of Oregon State, the upside-down high jumper, set a meet record when he won with a leap of 7-2 1-4; Lennox Burgher, the Big 8 champ from Nebraska, set another meet record when he won the triple jump with a leap of 53-1 1-4; Dave Patrick of Villanova beat Morgan Groth's four-year-old record when he took the 1,500 meter run in 3:39.9, and Lee Evans of San Jose State eclipsed Ted Wood's eight-year record in the 400 meter run by winning in 45.0.

Byron Dyce of Jamaica and NYU won the 800-meter run in 1:47.3; Villanova took the mile relay in 3:08.6; Emmett Taylor of Ohio U. held off Miller to win the 200-meter dash in 20.8; Jon Vaughn of UCLA was the man who beat Seagren in the pole vault, doing 17-1-4 to Bob's 16-8; Dave Hemery of England and Boston U. won the 400 meter intermediate hurdles in 49.8; Bob Narcessian of Rhode Island won the hammer with a throw of 202-1; Steve Marcus of UCLA took the shot putt with a heave of 61-7 3-4; Pertti Pousi of Finland and BYU won the long jump with a leap of 26-3 1-2, and Pearce won the 3,000 meter steeplechase in 8:50.8.

Lee Trevino Breaks Record In Winning National Open

came within a troke of the Open record. It also gave him a 284 total which deadlocked him with Don Bies of Seattle and netted each $5,500.

Jerry Pittman and Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, were next in line with 285 totals good for $3,750 apiece.

There were a number of significant happenings during the rain-plagued competition and possibly the one which will be remembered longest was Arnold Palmer's sad 301 finish which made him $720 richer but which also made him do a lot of thinking. Palmer's final round 75 was better than his wrteched 79 of Saturday but it still was a long way from the Arnold Palmer of old.

Then there was one more failure for 56-year-old Sam Snead, who still dreams of winning his first U.S. Open after 26 tries now.

Snead wound up with a 286 that put him in a group with Billy Casper, the pre-tournament favorite, Gay Brewer, Australian Bruce Devlin, Al Geiberger and Dave Stockton.

Rain Stops Net Tourney

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — The finals of the U.S. professional tennis championships at Longwood Cricket Club were postponed indefinitely because of rain.

Rod Laver and John Newcomb, both of Australia, were to have met in the championship round today.

Laver, winner of the tourney in 1964, 1966 and 1967, was top-seeded for this year's $32,500 renewal at Longwood. First prize money is $8,000.

He reached the finals by sweeping to a straight set victory over Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., yesterday after Newcombe thwarted an incredible comeback bid by Tony Roche in a marathon, rain-delayed opening semifinal match.

The tournament was postponed two days last week because of rain and wet grounds.

Wilhelm Approaches A Record

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Venerable reliever Hoyt Wilhelm continues to demonstrate his amazing ability to survive the hazards of his profession as he closes in on the major league record for most appearances by a major league pitcher.

The 44-year-old knuckleballer, only 19 games away from tying Cy Young's record of 906 mound appearances, pitched in both ends of a doubleheader against the Detroit Tigers Sunday. He won the first game for Chicago, a 3-2 decision, by pitching to one batter, but contributed to a 6-1 loss in the nightcap, although he faced only two batters.

In the first game, Wilhelm came on in the seventh with two on and two out and struck out Willie Horton to gain his second victory of the year.

Horton gained a measure of revenge as the first man to face Wilhelm in the eighth inning of the nightcap with the bases loaded and a 1-0 White Sox lead.

GROUNDER TIES IT

This time Horton dribbled a grounder down the first base line. Wilhelm fielded the ball but couldn't make a play because second baseman Tim Cullen failed to cover first. The tying run scored. Wilhelm then walked across the winning run and he was out of the game.

Wilhelm has survived these experiences during a career dating back to 1952 in establishing four major league records—835 relief appearances, 109 victories in relief, 1,535 innings in relief, and most appearances in a rookie season—71.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland took both ends of a doubleheader from Baltimore, 4-2 and 6-4, New York edged California, 4-3, Minnesota topped Washington, 4-2 and Boston whipped Cleveland, 5-3.

Torre Making Pitcher Pay Price

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It was Joe Torre who was beaned but it is pitcher Chuck Hartenstein who is paying the price.

And what a price!

The muscular catcher-first baseman of the Atlanta Braves has faced the slim Chicago Cub pitcher three times since the April 18 incident—and is batting 1.000 with two singles and a double.

Torra, who says he is no longer bothered by the injuries which sidelined him for a month, doubled home Hank Aaron yesterday from first base to give the Braves a 1-0 11-inning victory over the Cubs.

"The situation was the same as on April 18," noted Torre. "Aaron was on first base and running with the pitch."

CONCENTRATES

"I was conscious of the beaning the first time I batted against Hartenstein," admitted Torre, referring to a game in Chicago on June 7, "But this time I was thinking of getting a hit so we could win the game."

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-2, the San Francisco Giants defeated the New York Mets 4-1 and then lost 3-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates swept the Houston Astros 3-1 and 11-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in other National League games.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox 6-1 after a 3-2 loss, the Minnesota Twins edged the Washington Senators 4-2, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians 5-3, the New York Yankees downed the California Angels 4-3 and the Oakland Athletics whipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 and 6-4.

Catcher Johnny Edwards' two-run single with two out in the fifth inning capped a three-run Cardinal rally which gave Ray Washburn his fourth victory of the season. Edwards' single came after singles by Dal Maxvill and Lou Brock, sandwiched around a walk to Washburn and produced the Cardinals' first run off George Culver.

Jose Pagan doubled in one run and scored two others as Steve Blass won his third game with ninth-inning relief help from Luke Walker and Elroy Face. The Pirates completed the sweep with a 16-hit attack which included three hits each by Manny Jiminez and Fred Patek.

Reliever Jim Brewer struck out Richie Allen with the bases filled to end a seventh-inning threat and spoil Bob Skinner's debut as the Phillies' manager. The Dodgers scored the winning run off Rick Wise in the fourth on singles by Bob Bailey and Zoilo Versalles and Mike Ryan's passed ball.

Clippers To Take On Los Angeles

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Clippers, striving to regain their early season form after winning only once in their last six matches, face Los Angeles in a North American Soccer League match Wednesday night.

The Clippers appeared on the way to a 2-1 win at Vancouver Saturday night before Cheung Chi-wai of Vancouver scored with 30 seconds left to gain a 2-2 tie.

A loss at Los Angeles would not immediately threaten their hold on second place in the Pacific Division, but the Clippers could gain on division leader San Diego with a win.

Chi-wai rebounded home a shot after Oakland goalie Mirko Stojanovic deflected a 35-yard attempt by Vancouver's Bobby Cram.

Vancouver scored first in the contest, witnesses by 6,027, when Harry Klein booted in a 20-yard angle shot.

The Clippers came back with Dimitri Davidovic scoring on a 22-yard free kick.

Edgar Marin gave the Clippers the lead in the second then Vancouver tied it again for good.

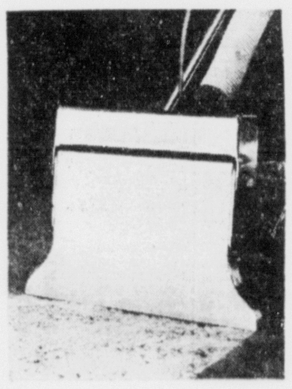
A BETTER WAY TO CLEAN CARPETS

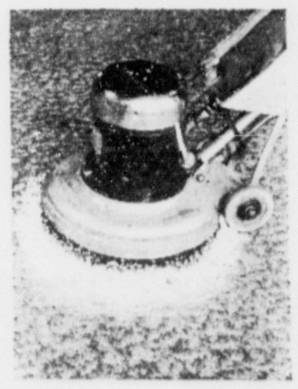
Deep Steam Wall-to-Wall Carpet Cleaning

This unique new process cleans deep and yet treats the finest carpet with loving care . . .



DEEP STEAM removes soil from both the pile of the carpet and the carpet backing. Since no brushes or scrubbing action is used, there is no distortion of the carpet pile. The powerful extraction action of the DEEP STEAM process lifts matted pile to "like new" appearance. The need for frequent professional cleaning is reduced because deeply embedded soil is removed and leaves no residue in the carpet fibers to collect dirt. During this cleaning operation every fiber is coated with a SOIL RETARDANT to keep your carpet clean longer.

The old equipment with brushes, using liquid detergent or powder, scrubs the soil DEEPER into the fabric . . . and even with the help of a vacuum fails to remove soil or residue. The detergent or powder left in the fabric soon attracts more soil and it is not long before the soil works back to the surface. Soon your carpets appear more soiled than before!



The advantages of DEEP STEAM CLEANING are obvious!

THIS DEEP STEAM PROCESS IS GUARANTEED TO BE COMPLETELY SAFE ON ALL FABRICS UNDER ALL CONDITIONS!

Large carpet and carpet fiber manufacturers and trade associations that have witnessed or conducted tests on "DEEP STEAM" say this:

". . . does remove a very high percentage of the loose soil compared to present practices."

"This machine does a very effective cleaning on heavily soiled carpet with a minimum of texture change."

"It does an excellent job that is far superior than anything that could previously be done by conventional on-location cleaning methods."

". . . witnessed a demonstration in the Institute's offices where they cleaned some wool carpet . . . It was extremely soiled to the point where regular on-location cleaning would not touch it. With this process, it came out beautifully."

"We would certainly go on record as recommending . . . Deep Steam . . . as a recommended method for the cleaning of carpeting."

Market In Sliding Day At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed sharply lower today, with many glamour stocks taking stiff losses. Trading was fairly active.

The record volume of Thursday's 21.35 million shares, and the "blow-off" characteristics of the session were combined with warnings from various sources about excessive speculation and caused considerable caution, brokers said.

Losses of several points were taken by Control Data, Loew's Theatres, IBM and Xerox.

Down about 2 points were such issues as Magnavox, Hooker Chemical, Occidental Petroleum, Santa Fe., U.S. Gypsum, Chrysler and Jones & Laughlin.

Prices near the close included:

American Telephone, up ½ at 50¼; Control Data, off 9 at 156⅜; Loew's Theatres, off 9½ at 88½; Xerox, off 11⅛ at 310⅛; IBM, off 6¾ at 349; Global Marine, off 5 at 49; Commercial Credit, up ¼ at 53¼; and Litton Industries, off 3¼ at 78⅞.

More than twice as many issues fell as rose.

Also very active, Occidental Petroluem lost about 2 and Litton Industries around 3.

Losses of around 2 points were taken by many issues, including Jones & Laughlin, Chrysler, Goodrich, General Dynamics, Raytheon, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Owens-Illinois, Polaroid, U.S. Smelting, U.S. Gypsum and Liggett & Myers.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Petroleum Firms Unite With Mining Operations

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please give your opinion on Canadian Industrial Gas & Oil (Toronto Exchange) and current price. — F.B.

A. A series of mergers formed this company in 1965, giving it high speculative potential in Northwest Canada's Rainbow-Zama area, the Arctic islands, the North Sea's offshore drilling operations and mineral properties in Wales. About 90 per cent of CIG is owned by Northern & Central Gas Co., so for trading purposes shares are limited to around 900,000.

Price range was narrow until this year when shares recently hit an all-time high of 17¾, up from an April low of 11¼. Back of this spurt was the disclosure of a rich mineral discovery in Wales, including silver in addition to zinc, lead and copper. Because oil companies are diversifying into a worldwide search for wanted minerals, CIG is considered to be an extremely interesting speculation.

Q. I'd like to know what are hidden stocks and how to find out where they are. —R.M.

A. Hidden stocks, commonly called sleepers, are unrecognized bargains. For a stock to become active on the upside of the market, it requires a well-informed following — investors who are aware of the company's products and future prospects.

Shares are likely to be unlisted but this is not necessarily so. When such a sleeper is awakened by news releases about its company's progress and bids for the shares begin to climb, the stock could become a new glamor issue.

Television, Music Center Slated In New Northgate Shopping Unit

By the middle of August or first of September, unit three of the Northgate Shopping Center will have another retail store.

This is Butler TV and Music Center, second store in Marin for Robert Butler, dealer for Magnavox, high fidelity, stereo and home entertainment equipment. He has leased 3,450 square feet through Doheman and Co.

Butler has maintained a store in the Corte Madera Shopping Center for the last three years and this will be continued. The Northgate store will be similary stocked.

MUTUAL OF NEW YORK has also leased space through Dohemann and Co. but in the Margarita Plaza, Northgate Industrial Park.

The insurance company, which has been at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael since the first of the year, is acquiring 2,000 square feet in the Margarita Plaza, with room for a larger staff. The company expects to take occupancy by the first of August.

MRS. JUNE LEDERMAN has moved her Studio 7 gallery and art classes from 305 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, to 552 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo. This gives her twice as much space as before. Classes are conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

She has been at 305 Mission for the past four years and was previously in the Lincoln-Maple Building, San Rafael. New location was once occupied by the San Anselmo branch of Hoy's TV and Music Store.

TREND O' FASHION women's wear store at 1136 Fourth Street, San Rafael, has been sold to Mrs. Irene D. Woodhouse of Mill Valley.

Former owner Mrs. Thelma Lewellen will not give up working here altogether, but in her nine years of operating the business she hasn't had a full vacation. Now she intends to take one.

Wells Fargo To Seek U.S. Charter Nod

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Wells Fargo Bank, California's largest state chartered bank, has announced its intention to convert to a national charter and to increase its capital to $250 million.

Directors last week approved a transfer of $47.3 million from undivided profits to surplus, increasing the bank's capital and surplus to $250 million.

This raises the legal loan limit to $25 million and the secured loan limit to $50 million to any one borrower.

Richard P. Cooley, president and chief executive officer, said the charter move would give Wells Fargo more flexibility in its operations.

He said that under current regulations national banks may operate their mortgage banking, equipment leasing, credit card, travel agency and credit bureau activities through subsidiary corporations.

This alternative is not now available to Wells Fargo, as illustrated recently when it acquired Sonoma Mortgage Corp., including an office in Novato.

Cooley said, "Though it would have been far easier for us to operate Sonoma Mortgage as a subsidiary, we were required to consolidate it as an operating division of the bank."

Cooley pointed out that as a national bank Wells Fargo would be subject to the supervision of only one agency, the comptroller of the currency.

"The move would eliminate the necessity, among other things, of securing both federal and state approvals for authority to open new branches," Cooley said.
